PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 93^d CONGRESS, FIRST SESSION

SENATE—Wednesday, January 3, 1973

The third of January being the day prescribed by the Constitution of the United States for the annual meeting of the Congress the first session of the 93d Congress, commenced this day.

The Senate assembled in its Chamber at the Capitol.

The Senate was called to order by the Vice President.

PRAYER

God of our fathers and our God, who has watched over us from generation to generation, in prosperity and adversity, in peace and in war, we thank Thee for this new year with its new horizons, fresh challenges, and high duties.

Into Thy hands we commit the Government of this Nation.

May the solemn induction of some Members of this body become the renewal of vows for all. Join us in heart, mind, and soul to concert our best efforts for the common good. Make us new men for new times.

Keep us, O God, so dedicated to Thee and so completely under Thy rulership that we may do justly, love mercy, and walk humbly with Thee all our days.

Through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Mr. SCOTT of Pennsylvania. Mr. President, will the distinguished majority leader yield?

Mr. MANSFIELD. I am delighted to yield.

Mr. MANSFIELD. That is correct. The regular workaday day will begin tomorrow. Today is a day of swearing in and the usual resolutions which will be presented shortly; but beginning tomorrow, what the distinguished Republican leader has said is correct.

ORDER OF BUSINESS

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, to repeat once again, in accordance with the usual practice, the Senate concurring, no morning business will be transacted today. At the next meeting of the Senate, which will be tomorrow, the Senate will proceed to transact its business as usual, since the President will not be sending his state of the Union message to Congress until after the inauguration.

Mr. HART. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I yield.

Mr. HART. Mr. President, it has been at this point, in, I believe the last eight Congresses, that reservations have been voiced of an effort to be made to reserve the right to modify rule XXII.

For the benefit of the Senate leadership and my colleagues' information, I rise to announce a renewed effort to achieve reform of rule XXII. Once again, I am proud to join the senior Senator from New York (Mr. JAVITS), who has filled this field with patient persistence for many years.

We both remain convinced that a procedure permitting a majority of Senators to act on a measure after reasonable debate would well serve this body, and the American people. We remain committed to reform of rule XXII.

Nonetheless, we realize that several Senators who had supported changing rule XXII have now expressed second thoughts about the wisdom of that effort. Some Members have pointed out that the classic filibusters often exhausted months of the Senate calendar with extensive repetition and resort to wholly extraneous matters. They ask whether recent events suggest a greater threat from the other end of the legislative spectrum: the danger of momentous legislation being rammed through the Senate without barely adequate debate—in some cases even though there has been scant if any committee review for the benefit of the full Senate.

Others with new reservations about easing the cloture test may feel that its reform is still a desirable goal at some point, but that the accelerating imbalance of powers between the executive and legislative branches of the past decade makes it unwise to change rule XXII until that imbalance is corrected.

We are aware of these concerns and their genesis. We feel it may prove useful to give them a thorough airing in the Committee on Rules and Administration, which at this time will be considering other Senate reforms, before we seek to effect reform in this Congress. This year, the Senator from New York and I will offer a proposal designed to meet these concerns, consistent with the ultimate principle of Senate action by majority rule. Briefly, it would provide a substantial period of debate before cloture could be invoked by less than the presently requested two-thirds margin. At that point, the requirement would be eased to a three-fifths requirement, and after an additional period of debate, cloture could be obtained by majority vote. As my colleagues know this is not a brand-new concept. Similar proposals for a phased reduction in the cloture test have been made in the past by some of this body's most thoughtful Members. We feel the merits of such an approach are particularly apt now in light of the Congress I have mentioned.

We shall introduce our proposal next week, at which time we shall urge the continued desirability of changing rule XXII. But while some previous supporters of this reform wish to review the bidding, so to speak, we are prepared to ask for its orderly referral to the Rules Committee for hearings and a report, rather than presenting it for direct floor action as part of the organizational business for this new session.

In addition, it is our hope that the committee can hold hearings on rule XXII in the context of other proposed Senate reforms, so that all of us will have a clearer idea of their interrelation.

For the present, then, I wish to inform our colleagues of our intentions to offer this proposal, of our decision not to raise it for consideration at this time, and of our continued conviction and determination to attempt reform of rule XXII.

The Senator from New York and I continue to believe that modification of that rule is in the best interests of the Senate and the country.

Mr. JAVITS. Mr. President, I thank my colleague, and pay tribute to his own perseverance in this very critical matter, which substitutes for the Constitution a requirement that two-thirds of the Senate constitutes a majority before legislation can be passed.

Mr. President, I think we owe an explanation to the Senate and the country as to why we take this action. On two separate occasions, this issue has been raised in a very important way, and has had extended debate, including debate before the Vice President now presiding over the Senate. We have maintained the constitutional point that as of right, under the Constitution, we have the right to seek an amendment to the rules at the beginning of the session by a simple majority of the Senate. The Senate has not sustained that view. Indeed, on two occasions the Senate has acted the other way.

Now, succeeding generations to ours have an absolute right to persevere in that constitutional proposition, and they may have a Senate which will sustain them. The Senator from Michigan (Mr. HART) and I feel that that is a barren field right now. Therefore, we are seeking to go the legislative route for the purpose of changing rule XXII within the rules of the Senate by contending for the issue on the basis of its merits, recognizing that we face a reality, not a theory, and that we have a better chance pursuing it in a statutory way.

Mr. President, we believe that we would be helping by thorough and early hearings. It is my understanding that the other Members may feel that the matter should go to the calendar right away. The opportunity will, of course, be afforded for that procedure, and Senator HART and I certainly would not do anything to stop it, even if we could. But we had thought, in our original idea, and we still have that idea, that reference to a committee which could give thorough consideration to the rule in the light of the history and what we face today would be the most conducive to a constructive change, considering the realities which I have described.

So, Mr. President, I shall join with the distinguished Senator from Michigan in submitting such a resolution at the earliest possible time. I might say to the Senate that we are thinking in terms of a three-fifths cloture after 2 weeks of debate and a constitutional majority at any time after 1 month of debate. This is subject to change, but it is some indication to the Senate of our thinking.

Mr. GRIFFIN. Mr. President, with deference to my colleague, I want to indicate that I have been among those who have consistently voted for reform of rule XXII to allow debate to be brought to an end with a three-fifths vote instead of a two-thirds vote. I believe the Senate should consider this question at the outset of the session. Without regard to the constitutional issue, I think the rules of the Senate ought to be changed, and because I believe that, I wonder if my senior colleague from Michigan can indicate, when does he expect the Senator from New York to introduce such a resolution?

I shall be inclined to have that go to the calendar rather than the committee, because I think that the merits and arguments on this subject are well known. It would seem to me that it should go to the calendar or be brought before the Senate as rapidly as possible this session. Perhaps the Senator from Michigan can give me some indication.

Mr. HART. Mr. President, as the Senator from New York indicated, we anticipate producing a resolution within a matter of a very few days, but, having been advised by the Senator from Michigan of his own tentative feelings at least, I am sure the Senator from New York and I will make certain prior to the day of production to advise the Senator of our intention, in order to permit him, if he should feel then as he does now, to direct the resolution accordingly.

Mr. GRIFFIN. I appreciate the statement of the Senator. Of course, no other Senator is precluded from submitting a resolution and asking for its immediate consideration, in which event it could be put on the calendar.

Mr. JAVITS. Nor, if the Senator will yield, is the Senator prohibited or barred from doing the same with our resolution.

As a matter of fact, I hope we can operate with one resolution. If the Senator wishes to refer it to the calendar, he certainly can effectuate that.

SENATE RESOLUTION 9—SUBMISSION OF A RESOLUTION TO ESTABLISH A SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON THE TERMINATION OF THE NATIONAL EMERGENCY

(Referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.)

Mr. CHURCH (for himself and Mr. MATHIAS) submitted the following resolution:

(b) The co-chairmen of the special committee shall preside over meetings of the special committee, except that (1) in the absence of one of the co-chairmen, the other co-chairman may preside, and (2) in the absence of both co-chairmen, any other member of the special committee designated by both co-chairmen may preside.

(c) Either co-chairman of the special committee or any member thereof may administer oaths to witnesses.

(d) Subpenas authorized by the special committee may be issued over the signature of either co-chairman, or any other member designated by the co-chairman, and may be served by any person designated by the co-chairman or member signing the subpoena.

Sec. 4. For the period from January 3, 1973, through February 28, 1974, the expenses of the special committee under this resolution shall not exceed $175,000, of which amount not to exceed $25,000 shall be available for the procurement of the services of individual consultants, or organizations thereof, as authorized by section 202(1) of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946, as amended.

Sec. 5. The special committee shall make a final report of its findings, with respect to such period together with such recommendations for legislation as it deems advisable, to the Senate at the earliest practicable date, but not later than February 28, 1974. The special committee may also submit to the Senate such interim reports as it considers appropriate. Upon submission of its final report, the special committee shall cease to exist.

Sec. 6. Expenses of the special committee under this resolution shall be paid from the contingent fund of the Senate upon vouchers approved by the two co-chairmen of the special committee.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. ROBERT C. BYRD. Mr. President, if there be no further business to come before the Senate, I move, in accordance with the previous order, that the Senate stand in adjournment until 12 noon tomorrow.

The motion was agreed to, and, at 1:09 p.m., the Senate adjourned until tomorrow, Thursday, January 4, 1973, at 12 o'clock meridian.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES—Wednesday, January 3, 1973

This being the day fixed by the 20th amendment of the Constitution for the annual meeting of the Congress of the United States, the Members-elect of the House of Representatives of the 93d Congress met in their Hall, and at 12 o'clock noon were called to order by the Clerk of the House of Representatives, Hon. W. Pat Jennings.

The Chaplain, Rev. Edward G. Latch, D.D., prefaced his prayer with these words of Scripture:

Be strong and of good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed; for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest.—Joshua 1: 9.

Eternal God and Father of us all, make us aware of Thy presence as we prepare ourselves for a new year together in the service of our beloved country. Bless these Representatives of our people with Thy most gracious favor and so move within their hearts that they may look to Thee for guidance and from Thee receive wisdom to walk in Thy ways, strength to stand steadfastly for the common good, and confidence to labor courageously for peace, justice, and freedom in our world. Support them all the day long as they face the responsibilities entrusted to them.

Before Thee we remember with affection and with sorrow HALE BOGGS, Frank Bow, NICK BEGICH, GEORGE COLLINS, and Harry S Truman. May these beloved colleagues and our former President find favor in Thy sight and receive the reward of work well done for our Republic. Comfort their families with the strength of Thy spirit.

Now let us unite in praying together:

Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever. Amen.

The CLERK. Representatives-elect, this is the day fixed by the Constitution for the meeting of the 93d Congress, and as the law directs, the Clerk of the House has prepared the official roll of Representatives-elect. Certificates of election covering the 435 seats in the 93d Congress have been received by the Clerk of the House of Representatives of the 92d Congress, and the names of those persons whose credentials show that they were regularly elected as Representatives in accordance with the laws of their respective States or of the United States will be called. As the roll is called, following the alphabetical order of States, beginning with the State of Alabama, Representatives-elect will please answer to their names to determine whether a quorum is present.

The reading clerk will call the roll.

The Clerk called the roll by States and the following Representatives-elect answered to their names:

On December 20, 1972, the Speaker directed a letter to the Clerk of the House which the Clerk will read.

WASHINGTON, D.C.,
December 20, 1972.

Hon. W. PAT JENNINGS,
Clerk, House of Representatives,
Washington, D.C.

DEAR MR. JENNINGS: When the 93rd Congress convenes on January 3, 1973, the House will be confronted with a situation which is unprecedented in our history. I refer, of course, to the probability that the Representatives-elect from the Second Congressional District of Louisiana and from the at-large seat in Alaska will not appear to take the oath of office at noon on that day.

While it is common knowledge that Representatives-elect Hale Boggs and Nick Begich, together with Russell L. Brown and Don Jonz of the State of Alaska, departed by plane from Anchorage, Alaska, on October 16, 1972 on a flight bound for Juneau, Alaska, and have been missing since that date, any action which the House might take to declare their seats vacant, or otherwise pertaining to their status as Representatives-elect, should, I believe, be based upon the most reliable and official documentary evidence available as of January 3, 1973.

I therefore request that you obtain, for transmittal to the House when it convenes on January 3, 1973, certified copies of any judicial determination and other relevant information then available with respect to the status of the persons in question. Such documentary evidence will then enable the House to more properly discharge its constitutional responsibility in this matter.

Sincerely,

CARL ALBERT.

The CLERK. Pursuant to the Speaker's instructions the Clerk has forwarded to the Speaker a certified copy of the certificate of presumptive death of the Honorable NICK BEGICH, of Alaska.

Also contained in the certified information which the Clerk has forwarded to the Speaker is documentary evidence that the Honorable HALE BOGGS, a Representative-elect from the State of Louisiana, was a passenger on a plane which disappeared on a flight from Anchorage, Alaska, to Juneau, Alaska, on October 16, 1972.

ELECTION OF SPEAKER

The CLERK. The next order of business is the election of a Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Nominations are now in order.

The Clerk recognizes the gentleman from Texas (Mr. TEAGUE).

Mr. TEAGUE of Texas. Mr. Clerk, as chairman of the Democratic caucus, I am directed by the unanimous vote of that caucus to present for election to the office of the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the 93d Congress the name of the Honorable CARL ALBERT, a Representative-elect from the State of Oklahoma.

The CLERK. The Clerk recognizes the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. ANDERSON).

Mr. ANDERSON of Illinois. Mr. Clerk, as chairman of the Republican Conference and by authority, by direction, and by unanimous vote of that conference, I nominate for Speaker of the House of Representatives the Honorable GERALD R. FORD, a Representative-elect from the State of Michigan.

The CLERK. The Honorable CARL ALBERT, a Representative-elect from the

The CLERK. The rollcall discloses the presence of 426 Members-elect.
A quorum is present.

STATEMENT REGARDING CERTAIN CREDENTIALS

The CLERK. The Clerk will state that credentials regular in form have been received showing the election of the Honorable WALTER E. FAUNTROY as Delegate from the District of Columbia, the Honorable ANTONIO BORJA WON PAT as Delegate from the territory of Guam, and of the Honorable RON DE LUGO as Delegate from the territory of the Virgin Islands.

The Clerk will also state that credentials regular in form have been received showing the election of the Honorable JAMIE BENITEZ, as Resident Commissioner from the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, for a term of 4 years, beginning January 3, 1973.

Since the last regular election of Representatives to the 93d Congress one change has occurred as a result of which a vacancy now exists in the State of Illinois, occasioned by the death of the late Honorable GEORGE W. COLLINS, of Illinois.

State of Oklahoma, and the Honorable GERALD R. FORD, a Representative-elect from the State of Michigan, have been placed in nomination.

Are there further nominations?

There being no further nominations, the Clerk will appoint the gentleman from Ohio, Mr. HAYS, the gentleman from Ohio, Mr. DEVINE, the gentlewoman from Missouri, Mrs. SULLIVAN, and the gentlewoman from Massachusetts, Mrs. HECKER, to act as tellers.

The tellers will please take their places at the desk in front of the Speaker's rostrum.

The roll will now be called, and those responding will indicate by surname the nominee of their choice.

The reading clerk will call the roll.

The tellers having taken their places, the House proceeded to vote for the Speaker.

The following is the result of the vote:

Speaker-elect of the House of Representatives of the 93d Congress, who was escorted to the Chair by the committee of escort.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. Mr. Speaker and colleagues of the 93d Congress, it is a great honor to stand before you as a sort of surrogate for the Speaker of the House.

Of course, I am a little bit disappointed about losing this contest for the speakership, but after five defeats you learn to grit your teeth and smile.

First of all, I want to wish you all a Happy New Year before somebody gets up and tells you something different.

I also want to express my thanks to those who voted for me over on this side of the aisle. I understand it was unanimous and I hope we can have that same kind of minority solidarity for the next 2 years.

Finally, I would like to congratulate our distinguished Speaker and to assure him that I will support him—one thousand percent.

As I look over this historic Chamber I see many old friends and familiar faces—but also many new ones. Fifteen percent of you have just cast your first vote as Members of the House of Representatives of the U.S. Congress.

I wish to that group the fondest welcome and to that group may I say a special word or two.

When I first came to the Congress 24 years ago, I was under the handicap of having defeated in the Republican primary a very, very senior member of the Michigan delegation who naturally had many good friends in the House on both sides of the aisle.

The day I was sworn in I happened to sit down beside one of the most senior Republican Members from Michigan, introduced myself, and started a conversation I thought in a friendly spirit. That senior Member turned to me and asked this question: "Young man, do you know the definition of a Congressman?"

I naturally said, "No." His response was, "A Congressman is the shortest distance between 2 years."

You will find, I hope, that we are a much friendlier group today. For one thing, a bloc of 68 votes, Mr. Speaker, 15 percent of the House, could be decisive if all you new Members would stick together. Of course you will not. You will vote according to your best judgment and the best interests of the country and of your constituents, which is how it ought to be.

May I urge you to counsel with your colleagues in one important respect, and that is the consideration we all owe to the institution of the House itself. The longer you work here the better you will understand what I mean.

I am sure that if my very dear friend, HALE BOGGS, were here, he would say some of the things that I am saying far more eloquently than I. And NICK BEGICH, although he had served only one term, would have agreed as would have GEORGE COLLINS, another able and fine colleague. All of us on both sides of the aisle will miss HALE, NICK and GEORGE very, very much.

This is truly the People's House, as

The CLERK. The tellers agree in their tally. The total number of votes cast is 424, of which the Honorable CARL ALBERT has received 236 and the Honorable GERALD R. FORD, 188. Therefore, the Honorable CARL ALBERT, a Representative-elect from the State of Oklahoma having received a majority of all the votes cast, is duly elected Speaker of the House of Representatives of the 93d Congress.

The gentleman from Michigan, Mr. GERALD R. FORD, the gentleman from Massachusetts, Mr. O'NEILL, the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. ARENDT, the gentleman from Texas, Mr. TEAGUE, the gentleman from Oklahoma, Mr. STEED, will please escort the Speaker-elect to the Chair.

The Doorkeeper announced the Thomas Jefferson once said. It comes as close to being a continuous sampling of public opinion as any part of our Government. Its powers are very great. Its traditions are very strong and deeply rooted in the lessons of history. You have been entrusted by the people who elected you—by those who voted for you and by those who voted against you or did not vote at all—to represent them in shaping laws and making decisions that profoundly affect their lives and the future of their children. This is a solemn responsibility and a very, very high privilege.

The institutions of government are all under fire today, and among them the House of Representatives. This is not unique to our times. Congress has always been the target of humorists like Mark Twain and Will Rogers, and presidents from George Washington forward have not been above blaming most of the country's troubles on the legislative branch.

But I think it is fair to say that never before have we been under closer scrutiny by the public than today, with all the advances in communications and instant analysis, and with the liberalization of our own rules and procedures. So I urge you all, and particularly the new Members, to bear in mind that you represent the House itself in all that you do. I for one pray that we shall represent the House in the 93d Congress with honor and with pride.

One Member, above all, represents the House as an institution more than the rest of us. The Speaker has been called the second most powerful official of our Government, and the speakership is an office of great dignity and power demanding great diligence and ability. Only 49 Americans have occupied this Speaker's chair.

We have just elected one of my oldest and dearest friends to this high responsibility for the second time. He has shown himself to be a Speaker of scrupulous honesty and fairness, a staunch champion of the rights and privileges of all Members and of the great traditions of this body. I am deeply honored to present to my colleagues of the 93d Congress a fine friend, a dedicated American, and a distinguished son of Oklahoma, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Honorable CARL ALBERT.

Mr. ALBERT. My dear colleague and dear personal friend, GERALD FORD, and my colleagues of the 93d Congress, I am most grateful for the very generous manner in which the distinguished minority leader has introduced me. This is my 14th term in the Congress. Although it may be a confession of weakness to have a little seniority around here, it is my 14th term, and that is the best introductory speech I have ever had. In the first place GERRY FORD is a great speaker, and in the second place I do not know of any minority leader who has ever had as much practice introducing Democratic Speakers since I have been here.

Once again, my colleagues, I must, of course, thank each and everyone of you from the bottom of my heart for bestowing upon me one of the highest offices in this or any land. I accept this, mindful that the office of Speaker is a House office, not a party office alone. The Speaker is elected by all the Members of this great body, although he does not get all the votes, and I promise you that I will continue to serve all the Members of this House to the best of my ability. I shall undertake to do it with openness and with fairness regardless of party affiliation.

Under our American system the Speaker is more than a presiding officer. He is the elected leader of his party in the House. You expect him therefore when the occasion arises to speak for his party and for his party's programs, but I hope it can be said by all of my colleagues that CARL ALBERT is an American and is a Member of the House of Representatives and is a Democrat in that order.

If I might interject a very personal note at this point, may I observe that for me this moment of high honor is dimmed by the absence of a friend and colleague who served with me as whip and then as majority leader. We served together, HALE BOGGS and I, in the leadership of the House of Representatives for 10 years. To take this office without HALE BOGGS is a sad and lonely occasion for me. And, of course, I miss the other departed colleagues who are not with us today. I will miss HALE's counsel, I will miss his support, I will miss his friendship, but at this time of shared loss I draw strength and assurance from my colleagues on both sides who when the occasion demands always lend the Speaker their support.

In particular, I know that my old friend, the distinguished minority leader, GERALD FORD, will stand with me and work with me to help make the House a forum for effective national leadership, as he has indicated in his own remarks, and at the same time a responsible instrument of the people's will.

Mr. FORD and I have differed in the past; no doubt we will differ from time to time in the future. But, we have never differed on the conviction that the House of Representatives must always safeguard its constitutional role as a strong and influential branch of our National Government; in my view, the most vital branch springing from and nourished by our people.

To that end, I give you my pledge that I will work harder for that purpose in this session than I have ever worked in my life.

I am also pleased to note that my Democratic colleagues have selected a successor to HALE BOGGS who is destined to become one of the great leaders of the House of Representatives.

TIP O'NEILL is a big man with a heart and a mind and a sense of compassion equal to his size. He is a man of immense dedication and intense loyalty.

I am proud to have him serving with me as we begin another Congress, and I am particularly proud that he will serve as my right arm.

We are fortunate to have such men as these, JERRY FORD and TIP O'NEILL, as our leaders, for the times demand much of us. Our responsibility grows with each passing year, and the years become shorter in the process. Each session our workload becomes heavier. Each session more and more legislation is brought to the floor.

At the end of the session some say that we have done too much; others say we have done too little. It is very strange that never do we hear anyone say that we have done just enough. Where does the truth lie between these points of view?

The answer to that, of course, depends upon our vision of America. Those who believe that America is as good as can be or needs to be are naturally going to be against an active Congress. Those who believe our society is perfect are bound to oppose any attempt to improve upon it.

Those who believe that the American promise of equality and equal opportunity are realities now for all of our citizens will resist our efforts to put all Americans on an equal footing.

But I personally cannot accept this view of our Nation. This is a Nation based upon equality and freedom, dedicated to human rights and human peace, and these ends we shall endeavor to accomplish in the current session of the Congress.

I do not believe that America is a finished product, a Utopia, a good stopping place, an ideal that has already been perfected.

I do not believe we are as good as we can be, or as free as we can be, or as equal as we can be, or as just as we can be.

I believe that the Bill of Rights is more than just a static set of principles. I believe it is a promise constantly renewed and expanded by each succeeding generation to meet the changing needs of time.

Consider these facts.

When Frederick Muhlenberg became our first Speaker in 1789 the Bill of Rights did not exist. Today it is an absolutely inseparable part of the very fabric of American Government.

When Henry Clay was elected Speaker in 1811 American children did not have the "right" to an education. Today they do.

When William Pennington was elected Speaker in 1859 black Americans did not have the "right" to citizenship. Today they do.

When Champ Clark was elected Speaker in 1911 American women did not have the "right" to vote. Today they do.

When Nicholas Longworth was elected Speaker in 1925 Americans did not have the "right" to Government protection in their efforts to organize and operate as unions. Today they do.

When John Garner was elected Speaker in 1931 older Americans did not have a "right" to a guaranteed income and medical care in their years of retirement. Today they do.

When Sam Rayburn was elected Speaker in 1940 our veterans did not have the "right" to an education. Today they do.

When John McCormack was elected Speaker in 1962 all Americans did not have the "right" to eat where they pleased. Today they do.

When I was elected Speaker just 2 years ago 18-year-old Americans did not have the "right" to vote. Today they do.

My colleagues, the work of America is never finished. Today as I prepare to take the oath of Speaker for the second time, Americans are talking about new "rights" which, if we do our job, will become, as other "rights," permanent parts of the American tradition.

What are some of those "rights"?

The right to breathe air that is clean, to drink water that is pure.

The right to a job for everyone who wants to work.

The right of every consumer to be protected in the marketplace.

The right of every woman to be treated as equally as every man.

The right to adequate health care regardless of age or ability to pay.

The right of every citizen to be treated as an individual no matter how large or complex our society becomes.

This expanding Bill of Rights will demand our attention in the months ahead, for a right, no matter how widely recognized it is, does not automatically become a reality.

That requires action and legislation and commitment, but that is what America and the American Congress are all about. My colleagues, I see America as a nation constantly in motion, striving, growing, building, dreaming, playing, changing, planning, reforming. I see an America that is not an end in itself, but a great and noble experiment for the betterment of all mankind.

I see Congress as a part of that experiment, not the roadblock to change, but an instrument of orderly and thoughtful progress. I see each of us, 435 elected Members of this body, carrying on our tasks and adding to the treasured sweep of American history.

I am now ready to take the oath of office.

I now ask the dean of the House of Representatives, Hon. WRIGHT PATMAN, of Texas, to administer the oath of office.

Mr. PATMAN then administered the oath of office to Mr. ALBERT, of Oklahoma.

SWEARING IN OF MEMBERS

The SPEAKER. According to the precedent, the Chair will swear in all Members of the House at this time.

If the Members will rise, the Chair will now administer the oath of office.

The Members-elect and Delegates-elect and the Resident Commissioner-elect rose, and the Speaker administered the oath of office to them.

The SPEAKER. The gentlemen and gentlewomen are now Members of Congress.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE CLERK OF THE HOUSE

The SPEAKER laid before the House the following communication from the Clerk of the House of Representatives:

WASHINGTON, D.C.,
January 2, 1973.

Hon. CARL ALBERT,
The Speaker, U.S. House of Representatives.

DEAR MR. SPEAKER: This is in further reply to your letter of December 20, 1972, wherein you requested transmittal to the House of Representatives when it convenes on January 3, 1973, certified copies of any "judicial determinations and any other relevant information available" with respect to the status of Representative-elect Nick Begich from the at-large seat of Alaska and Representative-elect Hale Boggs from the Second Congressional District of Louisiana.

Attached herewith is a certified copy of the Certificate of Presumptive Death, the Presumptive Death Jury Verdict, and Order signed by Alaska District Court Judge Dorothy D. Tyner on December 29, 1972, for the Honorable Nick Begich, at-large Representative for Alaska, who was one of three passengers in an airplane that departed from Anchorage on a flight bound for Juneau, Alaska on October 16, 1972, and disappeared, together with Judge Tyner's covering letter of December 29, 1972, that was received this date. I have also received this date from the Alaska District Court a certified copy of the transcript of the Presumptive Death Hearing concerning the airplane's October 16, 1972, disappearance with its pilot and passengers, together with 45 color slides depicting the search areas which were shown to the hearing jury. Your attention is respectfully invited to pages 19, 20, 21, 26, 37, 50, 103 and 106 of the hearing transcript that discuss the presence of the Honorable Hale Boggs as a passenger on the October 16, 1972, Anchorage to Juneau flight that disappeared. Additionally, I received the attached telegram this date from the Honorable William A. Egan, Governor of Alaska, confirming that on December 29, 1972, the day the Order that presumed death of the Honorable Nick Begich was signed by Judge Tyner, Governor Egan declared Alaska's only at-large House seat vacant. It has been announced that Governor Egan also ordered a special election for March 6, 1973, to fill said vacancy.

Also attached herewith is a Certification executed by the Governor of Louisiana on December 21, 1972, and attested to by the Secretary of the State of Louisiana that contains a certified opinion of the Attorney General of Louisiana that no action has been taken by the Governor and that no action is before the courts of Louisiana that would in any way change the status of the Honorable Hale Boggs or modify the Election Proclamation for the General Election held in Louisiana on November 7, 1972, that was signed and issued by the Governor and countersigned by the Secretary of State under the seal of the State of Louisiana on December 11, 1972, certifying that the Honorable Hale Boggs was elected as Representative for the Second Congressional District of Louisiana and transmitted to the Clerk of the House in the Secretary of State's letter of December 12, 1972. I have this date received the attached telegram from the Secretary of State of Louisiana, advising that the situation in Louisiana has not changed the December 21, 1972, Certification of the Governor of Louisiana. Based on said Louisiana's Congressional Election Proclamation, the Honorable Hale Boggs has been enrolled by the Clerk of the House as the Representative-elect from the Second Congressional District of Louisiana on the roll of Representatives-elect for the Ninety-Third Congress.

In the event the Clerk of the House receives or learns of any additional information prior to the convening of the Ninety-Third Congress, such information will be transmitted to the House of Representatives promptly.

In accordance with your previous oral directions, I have prepared draft resolutions related to this matter and have separately transmitted them to the Parliamentarian of the House of Representatives.

With kindest regards, I am

Sincerely,

W. PAT JENNINGS,
Clerk, U.S. House of Representatives.

STATE OF LOUISIANA,
Baton Rouge.

To the U.S. House of Representatives:

I, Edwin W. Edwards, Governor of Louisiana, do hereby certify to the United States House of Representatives that the Governor of Louisiana has not taken any action nor, according to the certified opinion of William J. Guste, Jr., Attorney General of the State of Louisiana, said certification being attached and made a part hereof, are there any actions before the Courts of Louisiana, nor has any other action been taken that would in any way change the status of the Honorable Hale Boggs or modify the election proclamation for the General Election held in Louisiana on November 7, 1972 that was certified, signed and issued by the Governor and the Secretary of State over the seal of the State of Louisiana on December 11, 1972 for the Second Congressional District of Louisiana, and transmitted to the Clerk of the United States House of Representatives in the Secretary of State's letter of December 12, 1972.

EDWIN EDWARDS,
Governor of Louisiana.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE CLERK OF THE HOUSE

The SPEAKER laid before the House the following communication from the Clerk of the House of Representatives:

WASHINGTON, D.C.,
January 2, 1973.

Hon. CARL ALBERT,
The Speaker,
U.S. House of Representatives.

DEAR MR. SPEAKER: This is an additional response to your letter of December 20, 1972, wherein you requested transmittal to the House of Representatives when it convenes on January 3, 1973, certified copies of any "judicial determinations and any other relevant information available" with respect to the status of Representative-Elect Nick Begich, from the at-large seat of Alaska and Representative-Elect Hale Boggs from the Second Congressional District of Louisiana.

I have this evening received from the Secretary of Defense the attached letter describing the air and sea rescue search efforts conducted by his department for the "aircraft which carried the Honorable Hale Boggs as a passenger . . . missing on a scheduled flight from Anchorage, Alaska to Juneau, Alaska since the sixteenth day of October 1972." The Secretary of Defense "determined that further search would be of no avail [and] . . . informed the Commander-in-Chief Alaska Command to suspend further active search."

In the event the Clerk of the House receives or learns of any additional information prior to the convening of the Ninety-Third Congress, such information will be transmitted to the House of Representatives promptly.

With kindest regards, I am,

Sincerely,

W. PAT JENNINGS,
Clerk, House of Representatives.

CONCERNING THE HONORABLE HALE BOGGS

Mr. TEAGUE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I offer a resolution (H. Res. 1) and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution as follows:

H. RES. 1

Whereas a certificate of election has been received by the Clerk of this House showing the election of Hale Boggs as a Representative in the Ninety-third Congress from the Second Congressional District in the State of Louisiana; and

Whereas Representative-elect Hale Boggs has not appeared to take the oath of office as a Member of this House; and

Whereas the Clerk of the House of Representatives, acting at the direction of the Speaker of this House for the Ninety-second Congress, has ascertained that Representatives Nick Begich and Hale Boggs, Members of the Ninety-second Congress, together with Russell L. Brown and Don E. Jonz of the State of Alaska, all of whom departed together by plane from Anchorage, Alaska, on October 16, 1972, on a flight bound for Juneau, Alaska, have been missing since that date and despite repeated and thorough searches have not been located; and

Whereas the District Court for the State of Alaska, Third Judicial District, after hearing witnesses and studying all available evidence relative to the disappearance of Representative Begich, Russell L. Brown and Don E. Jonz, has determined that these three men cannot be found alive after such a lapse of time and are presumed dead; and

Whereas as a result of the findings of the jury in the aforementioned judicial proceeding the judge of the said court has signed certificates of presumptive death with respect to Representative Begich, Russell L. Brown and Don E. Jonz; and

Whereas no evidence has been presented to this House or is known to it which distinguishes the missing status of Representative-elect Hale Boggs from that of the three men for whom the aforementioned certificates of presumptive death have been issued; Therefore be it

Resolved, That based on information provided by its Clerk, this House of Representatives hereby determines that there is a vacancy in the Ninety-third Congress in the representation from the Second Congressional District in the State of Louisiana because of the absence of Representative-elect Hale Boggs.

Resolved, That the Speaker of the House is hereby directed to notify the Governor of the State of Louisiana of the existence of this vacancy so that appropriate measures to fill this vacancy may be undertaken by the Governor pursuant to Article I, Section 2 of the Constitution of the United States.

Resolved, That the Speaker be authorized to appoint a delegation of Members of this House, together with such Members of the Senate as may be joined, to attend memorial services to be held for the former Majority Leader in New Orleans, Louisiana, on January 4, 1973.

The resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

RULES OF THE HOUSE

Mr. MADDEN. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the caucus, I offer a resolution (H. Res. 6) and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

H. RES. 6

Resolved, That the Rules of the House of Representatives of the Ninety-second Congress, together with all applicable provisions of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946, as amended, and the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1970, as amended, be, and they are hereby adopted as the Rules of the House of Representatives of the Ninety-third Congress, with the following amendments as part thereof, to wit:

In Rule XII, clause 2 is amended to read as follows:

"The Delegate from the District of Columbia shall be elected to serve as a member of the Committee on the District of Columbia and each Delegate to the House shall be elected to serve on standing committees of the House in the same manner as Members of the House and shall possess in all committees on which he serves the same powers and privileges as the other Members."

In Rule XVI, insert at the end of clause 4 the following:

"It shall be in order at any time during a day for the Speaker, in his discretion, to entertain a motion that when the House adjourns it stand adjourned to a day and time certain. Such a motion shall be of equal privilege with the motion to adjourn provided for in this clause and shall be determined without debate."

In Rule XXVII, clause 1 is amended to read as follows:

"No rule shall be suspended except by a vote of two-thirds of the Members voting, a quorum being present; nor shall the Speaker entertain a motion to suspend the rules except on the first and third Mondays of each month, and on the Tuesdays immediately following those days, and during the last six days of a session."

Mr. MADDEN. Mr. Speaker, I was about to move the previous question on this resolution, because the caucus on yesterday unanimously agreed on this with a few minor changes, but I have been requested by the minority to yield some time, so I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Nebraska (Mr. MARTIN).

Mr. MARTIN of Nebraska. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I have serious reservations about the third point, the rule which the gentleman has proposed, that is extending to the Tuesday after the first and third Mondays the consideration of bills under suspension. The bills under suspension, of course, are under what we might call closed rules or practically closed rules, because they cannot be amended in the House.

There is a great deal of sentiment and hue and cry about the country to open up to the will of the elected Members of the Congress and the people of the United States these bills to thorough debate and consideration on all legislative measures.

I grant, Mr. Speaker, that there are times when we should have a closed rule, but to increase by 100 percent the amount of time for consideration under suspension of the rules is contrary to the feelings of the people of this country. I am in opposition to this proposed change.

In respect to the legislative situation I would like to make this statement. I understand we cannot offer an amendment to support or oppose any particular change of these three points in the rules.

The important vote will come on the previous question. There will be a request from this side of the aisle for a rollcall vote on the previous question. If the previous question is voted down, then we will have an opportunity to offer amendments.

Mr. ANDERSON of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. MARTIN of Nebraska. I yield to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. ANDERSON).

Mr. ANDERSON of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Nebraska for yielding to me.

I can assure the Members of this body that I regret very deeply that, on the first occasion I have to take to the well of this Chamber in this first session of the 93d Congress, it is to object to what I think are highly arbitrary and high-handed procedures that are suggested with respect to the rules of this House; the very body that has just been as correctly described as the People's Chamber, in which the people's voice is to be heard. Yet, by this action that is proposed this afternoon, we are going to limit ourselves to less than 30 minutes of debate on a very fundamental question as to how we dispatch the business of this House.

Now, the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Rules knows that I have already written him this week and asked him to consider seriously the immediate reestablishment of a Subcommittee on Legislative Reorganization of the Committee on Rules, on which I am proud to serve.

That is the proper forum before which to take this matter, and after appropriate hearings to decide the manner in which we shall fundamentally change the rules by which we do business in this House.

I could not agree more with the gentleman from Nebraska that to increase by 100 percent this type of parliamentary procedure where, after 40 minutes of debate with no amendments being tolerated, we try to ram through this Chamber important pieces of legislation is not reform at all; it is a travesty upon the cry that has gone forth through the length and breadth of this land that we reform the procedures of this House.

I stand foursquare for reform of the procedures of this House. I would not have written a letter to the distinguished chairman suggesting the immediate reestablishment of a committee on legislative reorganization if I did not subscribe wholeheartedly to the principle of reform.

But, on the initial day of the first session of this new Congress, to propose in this manner without any prior communication that I am aware of whatever with the minority side of the aisle—to propose this kind of a sweeping, far-reaching change in the rules I think is preposterous.

Let me remind some of my liberal friends with whom I voted during the last session of this Congress when a bill to deny freedom of travel in complete violation of all constitutional rights was on the suspension calendar, that we defeated that bill, as I recall, by only one or two votes. It was a bill that never belonged on the suspension calendar in the first place.

I think we ought to give some very serious consideration to what we are doing here this afternoon. I do not like to vote down the previous question, but it is the only parliamentary procedure available to us to protest this unwise and retrogressive change in the rules.

The SPEAKER. The time of the gentleman from Nebraska has expired.

Mr. ANDERSON of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I ask the gentleman from Nebraska to yield to me for 1 additional minute.

Mr. MADDEN. I yield 1 additional minute to the gentleman from Illinois.

Mr. ANDERSON of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I repeat, that this is the only possible parliamentary procedure available to us this afternoon who are indignant not only about the fundamental nature of the change which the gentleman seeks to make, but by the arbitrary, high-handed procedure which is sought to be employed in altering the rules of the People's Chamber.

I hope that the Members will join me on the Democratic side of the aisle as well and after some sober reflection realize that there is time to reform the rules of this House in a proper way and in those areas where change is needed. I understand there is a move afoot in the Democratic caucus to consider over the next 2 weeks what other changes ought to be made in the rules. Let us do that in an orderly way by scheduling hearings before the Committee on Rules.

I am not suggesting that because I want to block change or block reform, but give us a chance after a fair hearing, after mature reflection and consideration, to begin the job, and what a necessary job it is, of reforming this House and its procedures.

Let us not get off on the wrong foot and start this very first day by doing something that in time we will come to repent.

Mr. MADDEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 10 minutes to the minority leader (Mr. GERALD R. FORD).

Mr. CLEVELAND. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. I yield to the gentleman from New Hampshire.

Mr. CLEVELAND. As I understand one of the proposed changes in the rules, we would have 2 more days in a month under which suspensions could be called up; is that correct?

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. It is my understanding that in one of the three provisions that would deviate from what we have had for a good many years—

Mr. CLEVELAND. There would be 2 more days?

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. There would be 2 more days a month, the Tuesdays following the first and third Mondays, which would then be open for suspensions.

Mr. CLEVELAND. And by inference, then, we could say there would be more bills brought up on the floor of the House under suspension of the rules?

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. I think that is a fair inference.

Mr. CLEVELAND. I think that not enough attention has been paid as to how bills get called up under a suspension of the rules. As I understand it, this is totally within the discretion of two people in the House, the Speaker and the chairman of the committee. I don't believe a member of a committee, has a right to vote on whether a bill would be considered under suspension of the rules, or taken to the Rules Committee. We have seen bills involving millions of dollars, enormously complex, come up under suspension of the rules. This has been done, as I understand it, by a decision of two people, the chairman of the committee and the Speaker of the House. Is that generally correct?

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. I would amend the gentleman's observation to one extent. The principal discretion rests with the Speaker of the House. As to the person he will recognize, that person does not necessarily have to be the chairman of the committee concerned. But somebody from a committee has to seek recognition, and the Speaker of the House has the discretion to recognize him, or whomever the committee chairman may designate.

Mr. CLEVELAND. And the committee has nothing to say. A member of a committee may suddenly and without any notice find an important bill from his committee coming up on the floor of the House under a suspension of the rules under which no amendment can be offered, with only 40 minutes of debate.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. That is correct.

Mr. CLEVELAND. I think this is a serious step backward for the House. It is a step backward and a blow to those of us who have been interested in meaningful congressional reform.

I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. Mr. Speaker, some of the details have been spelled out here in our discussion this afternoon, but let me say that we have three proposed changes in the rules of the House that ought to be discussed, and in my opinion in two instances there ought to be changes.

In the first, rule XII, clause 2, the proposal would make the delegate from the District of Columbia a member of the Committee on the District of Columbia and in addition it would provide that each delegate to the House be elected to serve on standing committees in the same manner as Members of the House, and so forth.

I do not believe there is any objection to that proposed rules change. I would not oppose that proposal under any circumstances.

Now we turn to one that I believe is vitally important. The rules of the House heretofore have said that the House shall meet every day, and there should not be more than a 3-day spread, at 12 o'clock at noon. In the past in order to get that time of meeting changed we had to have unanimous consent. This was a protection against an autocratic, dictatorial majority.

Although on some occasions I must admit I objected to the fact that a single Member would not permit us to come in at 11 o'clock or 10 o'clock, in retrospect I believe it was probably a good safeguard to protect the rights of the minority.

Now the proposal that is before us today says that the time of meeting shall be determined by a majority vote of the Members and that the Speaker can entertain a motion that has very high privilege.

Mr. Speaker, the majority will make the decision. The Speaker can recognize the individual, and the net result is that nobody in the minority, I do not think, is adequately protected—a minority on the side of the Democrats or a minority on the side of the Republicans.

Mr. Speaker, what we propose as a change in the rules—and I think it is fair—is that the Speaker be permitted to recognize a person for a change in the hour of meeting, but instead of a majority determining that issue it would require a two-thirds vote. If a two-thirds vote of this body says that we should meet at 11 o'clock or 10 o'clock, I think that is fair. But a simple majority, in my opinion, puts too much power, too much dictatorial authority in the hands of a mere majority of one.

And so, Mr. Speaker, if the previous question is beaten, we would offer an amendment that would simply change the vote from a majority to a two-thirds vote.

Mr. Speaker, the second point: I really do not understand why we have to double, increase by a hundred percent, the number of days of suspension each month.

As I understood the historical justification for suspension, it was for the purpose of considering relatively unimportant legislation or legislation where there was little or no controversy, and the net result was the rules of the House said that on every first and third Monday we should have suspension, and in addition during the last 6 days after the date of an adjournment has been set. I think that is a good rule.

But now, Mr. Speaker, to double, to increase by a hundred percent, the days on which we can have suspensions, in my judgment, is going too far, because suspensions, as all of us who have been here know, mean that you can take a bill involving billions of dollars, involving literally hundreds of thousands of words, and put it on suspension and you could not amend a dollar and you could not amend a word. And I do not believe that is the way to legislate.

Mr. Speaker, the Members talk about reform in the House proposing that we ought to open up committee hearings, and recommending other things that some of these crusaders are demanding.

If we adopt rule XXVII as it is proposed, that is a step backward from reform; it is retrogression from progress. I do not see how anybody who believes in making the House of Representatives more representative could possibly support this rule change.

Mr. Speaker, I urge that we defeat the previous question, and then we would offer an amendment which would simply strike—and I quote—"and on the Tuesday immediately following those days."

Mr. Speaker, I believe that it would be a step backward to make it more than the 2 days each month we now have.

Mr. DELLENBACK. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. I yield to the gentleman from Oregon.

Mr. DELLENBACK. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the gentleman yielding, and I join with him in support of the stand which he has taken. I regret the fact apparently that today on this critically important matter, one of the most significant things this body is going to do, in my opinion, there is going to be inadequate time for debate.

Instead of yielding the customary 30 minutes to the minority side so we could at least rise in support of those points on which our minority leader has so eloquently spoken, we have been informed by the chairman of the committee we are not going to be yielded that time, and for that reason I rise in support of our minority leader in expressing my opinion.

Mr. Speaker, I must stress the fact that in our opinion the step we are about to take is one of the most significant in this body, and what we are going to do on these rules will determine what happens during the rest of this session.

Mr. Speaker, it is not only the points on which Mr. FORD has so eloquently spoken and on which Mr. MARTIN, the gentleman from Nebraska, has so eloquently spoken, but it is the other factors which are involved in these rules. The gentleman in the well has made mention of the fact that everyone has had editorials written and everyone has spoken on this particular subject, and yet there is no amendment in these rules as proposed today that will bring up committee meetings any more than has been the case in the past. There is no amendment as the rule is before us now that will open up debate on the floor any more than we have it now.

There are other issues; there is the matter of staffing which we devoted some time to in the amendments of 2 years ago. Those are closed issues if we proceed today in this particular manner. There was a material step forward taken on a bipartisan basis 2 years ago. At that time the first congressional reform bill in 25 years was adopted by this House.

The SPEAKER. The time of the gentleman from Michigan has expired.

Mr. MADDEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 additional minutes to the gentleman from Michigan (Mr. GERALD R. FORD).

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. I thank the gentleman from Indiana for yielding, and I yield further to the gentleman from Oregon (Mr. DELLENBACK).

Mr. DELLENBACK. I thank the gentleman. I will make it short.

I merely wish to say that I regret what was a forward step 2 years ago and a long step in the right direction but which was only a partial step in the direction of a revision of the rules of this House will apparently not be continued and not be able to be continued under the procedure which is before us today.

There was a fine bipartisan effort made 2 years ago in which the Committee on Rules made material contributions. I am personally deeply regretful that it is apparently the decision of the majority and the Committee on Rules that we are going to be stopped dead in the water.

It should be clearly understood where the blame lies. If we are unable to amend the rules further today, it will not be because the fault is on our side but because we will be stopped by the arbitrary decision of the majority.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from New York (Mr. CONABLE).

Mr. CONABLE. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

I would like to ask, as this particular proposal emerges from the Democratic caucus, if the members of the majority party are to be permitted to vote their conscience on this or if there is a unit rule in effect. Has anything been said on that point?

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. Not having been at that meeting, I am not qualified to answer the question. I just do not know.

Mr. CONABLE. It is obvious that we are just spinning our wheels if there is any implication of the unit rule being in effect here. That is what we were faced with at the beginning of the last Congress. It is apparent unless the previous question is voted down at this point we will be relying on the tender mercies of the Committee on Rules hereafter for any further consideration of ways in which the rules of the House can be improved. Is that correct?

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. That is correct.

Mr. DU PONT. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. I yield to the gentleman from Delaware.

Mr. DU PONT. I thank the minority leader for yielding to me.

I would simply like to say that the 93d Congress is not yet 3 hours old and we are seeing a gag rule being imposed on even considering this question. Some of us have requested time to speak, but we are not even getting the 30 minutes on this side of the aisle to which we are entitled just to consider the question of amending the rules.

There are many Members on the other side of the aisle who came in, as I did, in the 92d Congress at a time when the whole question of the responsiveness of the Congress was a big issue. Where are those Members today? I do not know.

Mr. MADDEN. Mr. Speaker, may I inquire how much time the minority has used?

The SPEAKER. The minority has used 18 minutes.

Mr. MADDEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield the balance of the time to the gentleman from Nebraska.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman yields 12 minutes?

Mr. MADDEN. Twelve minutes to the gentleman from Nebraska for debate only.

Mr. MARTIN of Nebraska. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Iowa (Mr. GROSS).

Mr. GROSS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Nebraska for yielding to me.

I am still wondering where this outrageous resolution came from. Did it come from some caucus or from the Committee on Rules?

Mr. MADDEN. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. GROSS. I yield to the gentleman.

Mr. MADDEN. This came from the caucus that was held yesterday by the Democratic side, and it was passed, I think, practically unanimously.

Mr. GROSS. Mr. Speaker, I was here several years ago when the Committee on Rules was packed by the Democrat majority. It was alleged at that time that the packing was for the purpose of clearing legislation through the Committee on Rules. We were told at that time that everything would be lovely and the goose would hang high if additional Democrat Members were added to the Committee on Rules so that legislation could be expedited to the House floor. This would provide a detour around the Committee on Rules in order to bring legislation to the floor and under the most outrageous procedure.

I regret that there are not more of the new Members of the House on the floor this afternoon, for they must understand that now and in the years to come that adoption of this rule will rise to haunt them, because they will be confronted with legislation, as the distinguished minority leader has said, that may involve hundreds of millions, perhaps billions of dollars. To be confronted with that kind of legislation under a suspension of the rules is intolerable and a travesty on the orderly process of enacting legislation.

The SPEAKER. The time of the gentleman from Iowa has expired.

Mr. MARTIN of Nebraska. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Delaware (Mr. DU PONT).

Mr. DU PONT. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding. I would simply like to take up where I left off a moment ago, and I appreciate the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Rules granting us this additional time.

I would like to address myself very briefly again to the merits of this matter. I think it is a serious mistake to consider doubling of the time under suspension of the rules. We had a situation in the last session involving the bringing up of many controversial bills under the suspension of the rules procedure. It was not satisfactory. To double the time under the suspension procedure is in my judgment a distinct mistake.

It also would seem to me that if we are going to take a step like this we should have a full opportunity to consider it, and I do not believe that we can do that when we are confronted with this matter under today's procedure. So, as the minority leader said, I too would suggest that we vote down the previous question so that we will have an opportunity to consider the question at some length, and to consider in depth the particular amendment to the rules doubling the days for suspension of the rules.

The SPEAKER. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. MARTIN of Nebraska. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. FRENZEL).

Mr. FRENZEL. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding. I would like to say that I too share the extreme disappointment of seeing these rules changes being presented to us at this time, and in this fashion.

Members of the minority have only 30 minutes to question and debate these rules and they have no opportunity to amend them under this "closed rule" procedure.

The rules themselves provide for an expansion of time to handle bills under suspension: This means more bills will be worked on under another "closed rule" procedure with no amendments allowed and debate limited. Under this suspension procedure—or "closed rule" or "gag rule"—the Speaker has absolute authority to bring a bill before the House.

I can only ask—and I expect that my constituents would also want to ask—where are the liberals in the House? Where are their marvelous rules that are going to open up and make this great body be more responsive and more visible to the people of this country?

The answer is that they are certainly not on the Democratic side of the aisle, for here we are being asked to approve an extension of the "gag rule," for greater limitations of debate. The opportunity to get a bill from the Committee on Rules will depend on the decision of one man, who will be able to bring bills to the floor of the House in what may, or may not be, the regular order. This rule change would prevent amendments through the use of additional days for the suspension of the rules, which in itself is most assuredly an extension of the "gag rule."

Also, where are the liberal Members of this House with respect to minority staffing? Are we to continue, through these rules, the rape of the Reorganization Act of 1970? Originally we had thought that we would receive sufficient minority staffing, yet under these rules we will not, not even the one-third of the minority staffing which was supposed to be provided under the Reorganization Act.

Where are the liberals when it comes to opening up the visibility of this body with open meetings? They and their promises are not apparent in these rules, Mr. Speaker.

Where are the liberals who want to make this body in its legislative processes more liberal, and visible, and responsive? Certainly not on that side of the aisle, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I certainly will vote against the previous question. The object of these rules is an extension of the gag rule, and it is certainly a discredit to this House.

Mr. MARTIN of Nebraska. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN).

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN. Mr. Speaker, the minority leader as well as other Members of the minority have asked some serious questions about the reasons for the proposed changes in the rules.

It seems to me incumbent on the majority to give some serious answers as to why these changes are being proposed.

How do they feel about the advisability of a two-thirds approval for a change in the hour of meeting?

What is the justification for the increased number of days for suspension of the rules?

Are we going to get nothing but silence from the majority? It seems to me, it is high time for the Members of the majority to explain their position, if they have a position that is reasonable. I hope we get some word of wisdom, or otherwise, from the majority before this debate concludes.

Mr. MARTIN of Nebraska. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. MADDEN) if he would like to take some time now since we still have another speaker.

Mr. MADDEN. Not at this time, no. Mr. MARTIN of Nebraska. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New Hampshire (Mr. CLEVELAND).

(Mr. CLEVELAND asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks and include extraneous matter.)

Mr. CLEVELAND. Mr. Speaker, as I previously stated during the dialog with the minority leader, this is clearly a step backward. To increase by 100 percent "suspension" days is not a step forward. It is unfortunate, as some have pointed out, that there are so few Members on the floor of the House while we debate proposed changes in the rules of the House. It is also unfortunate the press gallery is almost empty. There certainly was a good deal of discussion about our rules during the recent campaign.

There is at least one aspect of this suspension matter that I think the people should be aware of.

Late in the last session we received through the whip office a list of bills that were available to come up under suspension of the rules. There were 46 bills. I am going to offer these at this point in the RECORD as it will be interesting for scholars of the legislative process and for the people of the fourth estate who think that our processes need change, to study this list of 46 bills that were dumped on our desks with no advance notice whatsoever. Some of these bills were of significance and importance. H.R. 16832 had a price tag of half a billion dollars.

The list follows:

46. H.R. 16883—Post-Secondary Education Commission.

I think it is unfortunate, extremely unfortunate, that we are now going to go into a situation where clearly the leadership on the majority side wants to have more suspension days, to give us longer lists of suspension bills that cannot be debated except for 20 minutes on each side of the aisle and that cannot be amended. As I pointed out during my dialogue with the majority leader, there is no control at all by Members of this House as to which bills get on this list and how they get on the list.

So far as my understanding is, a bill will get on the list if the committee chairman convinces the Speaker that that is where a bill should be. If this is democracy and if this is good legislative process, I would like to have an answer from the other side? In view of all the discussions, about reforming our procedures—this to me is clearly a step backward. To limit debate and prohibit any amendment on important legislation does not meet my standards for congressional reform.

Mr. MARTIN of Nebraska. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from New York (Mr. CONABLE).

Mr. CONABLE. Mr. Speaker, some people talk about reform, and when the chips are down vote to backslide. Where are the cries of outrage which liberals level against what they generally call an antiquated system, a system that lacks responsiveness and is subject to structural tyranny. Here we are increasing the hold of party over the will of the majority, and at the same time doubling the opportunity to bring bills to the floor under what amounts to a closed rule. That is the effect of suspensions of the rule—no amendment, and mighty little debate before the ramrod is administered.

Under the circumstances this is no way to change the rules of the House, and no direction in which to move. There is a constituency for reform in this land of ours, and this type of action, so soon after the rhetoric of the campaign has rung out with clarion promise, arrogantly squelches this constituency here in the House where the people must find their remedy.

Mr. MARTIN of Nebraska. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. McCLODY).

Mr. McCLODY. Mr. Speaker, there is great public demand for the reform of Congress. There is substantial merit to move for congressional reform.

It seems to me incumbent upon us to effect as many reforms as possible. But the adoption of this change in the rules would be opposite to the direction in which we should be moving. I say that because one of the reforms that we should adopt is to open up the opportunity for floor debate and make this House a more open forum to the end that the public can see and hear what we are doing here.

To stifle the opportunity for open debate by doubling or tripling the number of bills which will be placed on the suspension calendar—will result in limiting to 40 minutes the House debate on many important bills, and will prevent the House from working its will by way of amendments to all such measures. This, it seems to me is going backward—it is regressing instead of going forward.

It is my hope that we can have progressive reforms in this Congress which can contribute to bringing greater respect and greater honor to this body.

Mr. MARTIN of Nebraska. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. GUDE).

Mr. GUDE. Mr. Speaker, all through my congressional campaign the question of reforming House rules in order to make the processes of the House more responsive to the will of the people was a No. 1 issue. For example, the citizenry is most concerned that the House be able to work its will freely without gags which severely restrict debate on vital issues or deny the right to offer amendments to important bills.

Now, with the convening of Congress we find emerging from the Committee on Rules a step backward—a proposal to double the number of days in which legislation can be considered with a severe stricture on debate and no opportunity to offer amendments. Very important conservation and budgetary matters were hurriedly considered in this manner in the last session. Now we are extending an invitation for further use of these means.

It looks like the great wave of reform is dying on the beach with just a whimper. I think this is a sad day. I hope the House will rise above what has been mandated by the Democratic caucus and follow the suggestion of the minority floor leader and vote down the previous question.

Mr. MARTIN of Nebraska. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. ANDERSON).

Mr. ANDERSON of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I take this time merely to amplify the point made earlier by the gentleman from New Hampshire (Mr. CLEVELAND). On this list of 60 suspensions that were presented to this body for action in the final weeks of this past Congress we did not have just minor bills like those involving appropriations for jellyfish. We had things like the Strip Mining Reclamation Act, one of the most important environmental measures to come before the entire 92d Congress. We had the Community Mental Health Centers Act, the Omnibus Rivers and Harbors and Flood Control Act, the Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism Prevention program—measures involving more than $1 billion of Federal expenditures, and the gentleman talks about his desire to have the Congress recover and recapture control of Federal expenditures. How are we going to do it when we slip through bills on a Suspension Calendar of over $1 billion under a Suspension procedure where in 40 minutes we debate the entire matter and we cannot even submit an amendment to the bill? I would say that is not reform; that is retrogression of the worst possible sort.

Mr. GROSS. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. ANDERSON of Illinois. I yield to the gentleman from Iowa.

Mr. GROSS. Mr. Speaker, I am surprised that the next chairman of the Rules Committee would be responsible for this kind of resolution.

Mr. MADDEN. Mr. Speaker, one of the Members on the other side asked where the liberals are. I am going to call upon a self-confessed liberal, the majority leader of the House, the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. O'NEILL), for 5 minutes.

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Speaker, I am truly amazed that there is so much opposition from the other side. I thought if there were really going to be any debate on this floor today, it would probably be on the policy of the war. I did not think we would debate a matter of this type.

We are discussing two bills. One is whether or not we would have 2 extra suspension days in the month. Why did we offer this particular rules change? We offered it because we thought it was good reform. This change is no secret to the Members assembled here today. The newspapers have been writing about it; various organizations who want to reform the Congress have also been discussing the proposal. They have complained because on one day we had 46 suspension bills, which made for a long night session.

Is this a way to legislate? Why should we not have quit at 8 o'clock that night and brought up the remaining suspensions the next day?

That is what we have in mind. That is what we would like to do. We do not want to go until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning.

How does a bill get on the Suspension Calendar, the gentleman from New Hampshire wants to know. I am sure the minority leader knows. Although the chairman of the committee goes to the Speaker, he always clears the legislation with the minority member of the committee.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. O'NEILL. I yield to the gentleman from Michigan.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. If the chairman of that committee gets permission from the Speaker to be recognized, it does not make any difference whether the ranking minority member or the minority leader is consulted at all.

Mr. O'NEILL. I appreciate that, but I will say to the gentleman, I think we have always been extremely fair along the line. When the majority whip organization calendar is made up, the Speaker inevitably says to the chairman: Is this bill going to be a controversial matter? After all, as the gentleman from Michigan knows, it takes a two-thirds vote of this Congress to pass a bill on the Suspension Calendar.

Why, if the minority member of the committee is opposed to it, rare is the occasion when a suspension goes on the calendar.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. O'NEILL. I yield to the gentleman from Michigan.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. The point is it does not make any difference whether the ranking minority member agrees or disagrees. The discretion is with the Speaker and the person that he recognizes. We do not have any consideration as to whether it goes on suspension or does not.

Mr. O'NEILL. That is true; but we have been exceptionally fair with the gentleman. We are the majority and the majority should always be able to speak up. We are trying to give to the Members the rights that we believe are theirs. Many Members of the gentleman's own party complained last September and October because we had 46 bills on the suspension calendar.

Members asked, "Why do we have to work so late to clean up the suspension calendar?"

I can assure the gentleman from Michigan that we will all have to work late this Congress, if we do not allow time for the calendar to go over to the next day.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. Will my friend, the gentleman from Massachusetts, yield?

Mr. O'NEILL. I yield to the gentleman from Michigan.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. Mr. Speaker, I think one of the objections to working late is the fact that we had 46 bills on this one day and the fact that on too many occasions we had adjourned early and had not worked on Fridays. If the gentleman scheduled the program a little more evenly and if we worked Fridays we would not have to have 46 suspensions on one day.

Mr. O'NEILL. The gentleman has been around here long enough to know that in the closing days of the session things mount up like that. We have a suspension calendar primarily to dispense quickly with noncontroversial legislation, so we can have additional time to take up the more important bills that have to come before this Congress.

Let me talk about the other item for a minute. I can recall not too many years ago when the Speaker would get up and say, "Is there any objection to the proceedings of the day?" And if one person objected we would have to have read the RECORD of the previous day before it could be approved. We often wasted days doing that around here. We changed the rules in the reform that came through a couple of years ago and nobody had any objections. It was the correct thing to do. The majority voted for it.

I have sat here Thursday after Thursday and watched the majority leader rise after consultation with the minority whip (Mr. ARENDS) the gentleman from Illinois, or somebody from the other side to ask unanimous consent that we adjourn at 7 o'clock and come in at 10 o'clock. And an arbitrary Member of the House would get up and say, "I object." We would then say, "Let us see if we can talk to him." So two or three Members on this side would go over to the gentleman and ask, "Can't you yield?" The distinguished minority leader has seen that happen many times.

So what are we proposing? Instead of the rule of unanimous consent, all we are proposing is that the time and date of our next meeting be determined by a democratic method, by the consent of the majority of the House. After the majority leader gets up and says, "I ask unanimous consent that when the House adjourns it adjourns to meet at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning," then if there is objection he moves the proposition. If by the majority process we agree to meet at 10 o'clock in the morning, I do not see how anyone could get upset about that at all.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. MADDEN. Mr. Speaker, the Members on the other side of the aisle wanted to know where the liberals were. Here is another self-confessed liberal. I yield to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. ECKHARDT).

Mr. ECKHARDT. Mr. Speaker, upon the general proposition as to whether controversial bills should be on the Consent Calendar I am a conservative, but on the proposition of whether or not there should be a sufficient bracket of time to consider whatever bills are on the suspension calendar I am a liberal.

I had a little difficulty with my friends across the aisle in getting the necessary one-third of the votes to stop a bill in the last 6 days of the last session. It was very controversial. I found the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. HALL) was just about my only friend over there on the proposition that is now being espoused so universally on the Republican side. It takes only just over a third of the Members, and in many instances a good number of that third plus can be gotten from this side. But can we not stand on the principle at the time the particular issue comes up and on both sides of this aisle find at least a third of the Members who will stand on principle no matter whose ox is gored? That is the difficulty. The question we are involved with is substantially procedural but we can stop a controversial bill if there are just over a third of the Members on both sides who will stand for the principles that are being espoused here. I cannot see that a basic principle is involved in merely enlarging the bracket of time in which bills on suspension are allowed to be considered. The real evil should be cured in other ways.

The rules presently provide the method of cure. The rules presently say that if the chairman of the committee and the Speaker wrongfully put a controversial matter on the suspension docket, we can stop it; we can stop it if we want to do so.

Mr. GROSS. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. ECKHARDT. I yield to the gentleman from Iowa.

Mr. GROSS. The gentleman has offered a good many amendments to bills in his time in Congress. Does he wish to forego the opportunity to offer amendments to important legislation on the House floor, which he will be doing if he votes for additional days for suspension of rules? It makes no difference what the nature of the bill, the House is limited to 40 minutes of debate, 20 minutes on a side, and not a single amendment can be offered. Does the gentleman really think this is good procedure?

Mr. ECKHARDT. I feel it is good procedure if the Members of the House in that 20 minutes discover that the matter is controversial and are willing to vote their consciences instead of their advantages.

The SPEAKER. The time of the gentleman from Texas has expired.

Mr. MADDEN. Mr. Speaker, one Member on the other side of the aisle mentioned a very sorrowful subject. He regretted very much that we are not following congressional reform.

The next Member that I am extending time to is the author of the best-selling book several years ago on congressional reform, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. BOLLING).

I yield the balance of my time to the gentleman from Missouri.

Mr. BOLLING. I thank my chairman. I believe I am a reformer, but I am not a best-selling author.

I am sure that it would be relatively safe to say that if the shoe were on the other foot, that our friends on the other side of the aisle might well be proposing these two controversial items and we on this side might, in the interest of preserving to the minority its greater ability to delay, might be saying essentially what the minority is saying about these two propositions.

I would like to have an opportunity to make my case. These two propositions are both liberalizing and reformist. It clearly is not in the interest of the House of Representatives to leave to one Member the decision as to the hour of meeting from day to day. Anyone who has watched this institution for any length of time knows that, and I have no intention of talking about the history of that particular provision in this rules change from last year or the year before.

At one time it was pretty unanimously agreed upon by a bipartisan group. Now, the question of suspension is relatively as simple. It is not a desire on the part of the majority to impose a majority rule in the handling of bills under suspension. The very processes of suspension say that we must have a 2 to 1 vote. There is no attempt to change that. There is no attempt to provide a procedure which is not impossible to provide whereby bills that would normally go under suspension would go on majority vote, as often is the case when a suspension bill is defeated.

Now, a number of my friends on the other side who have played an honorable, useful and helpful role in bringing about reform of this institution have indicated their concern that this will be the last opportunity. I think, without speaking out of turn, that I can assure them that they are going to have many opportunities to work in behalf of reform of this institution. There is much that needs to be done. It cannot be accomplished, as these two controversial items can, by a purely partisan majority.

I would hope that they would not seriously contend that these two relatively minor procedural amendments constitute a stopping or a forwarding of reform to any great measure.

Mr. Speaker, I should like to finish in two or three more sentences.

Those are that both of these matters have been up repeatedly. They have been discussed frequently. They have been discussed at the leadership level. They have been discussed at the rank-and-file level. They have been discussed in the Rules Committee. There is nothing new about them.

I respect the views of my friends on the other side. I respect their desire to protect as many of their options as they can. But no man can say that this is retrogression. This provides an orderly procedure for the majority to decide when the House will meet. It provides an extension of time so there can be more orderly consideration in the unusual procedure of suspending the rules, which requires a two-thirds vote.

I submit that this is entirely rational, entirely timely, and has very little to do with real reform, much more of which remains needed.

Mr. COLLIER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. BOLLING. I yield to the gentleman from Illinois.

Mr. COLLIER. I have always respected the gentleman from Missouri for being a man who is always candid and fair. Having said that, does not the gentleman agree that the present limit on the time when suspensions may be called up do in fact constitute a limitation on the number of bills that can be brought up under suspension of the rules? Contrarily, would not the adoption of this rule tend to encourage more bills to be brought up under suspension of the rules, which in many cases is a wrong practice?

Mr. BOLLING. I would say to the gentleman, to try to answer him honestly, that I think the increase in the amount of time for suspensions is thoroughly justified simply on the basis of the increase in the overall workload of the Congress on major and minor bills since the original rule on suspensions went in.

Mr. COLLIER. Would this not encourage more bills to be brought up?

Mr. BOLLING. I would hope it would not, because I happen to believe that one of our great dilemmas is our failure to give adequate time to critically important bills, such as, for example, Defense Appropriations, while we spend inordinate amounts of time on very unimportant bills, sometimes for objective reasons dealing with the issue, sometimes for nonobjective reasons dealing with the next issue to come up.

I honestly believe that as this would be used, and as any Speaker would use it, it will be used nearly every time in order to expedite the overall careful consideration of important matters and the disposal of less important matters, by a procedure which enables one-third to block action. It is very easy to get a vote on a bill under suspension, to get one-third plus one, and to knock it out. Not much time has been wasted, and the sense of the House has been tested.

Mr. ANDERSON of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. BOLLING. I yield to my colleague on the Rules Committee.

Mr. ANDERSON of Illinois. The gentleman from Missouri knows that I respect him highly. He has impressive credentials indeed in the Congress on this question of congressional reform, but I have been deeply pained and, yes, surprised, this afternoon to hear him become an apologist for the proposed change in the rules which would double the amount of time during which we can consider bills under suspension of the rules, on the ground that this is going to provide a fair and orderly way in which to deal with legislation.

I have in my hand a suspension list for the week of October 9. Would the gentleman feel, for example, that we should give precisely the same amount of time for consideration of a bill involving strip mining reclamation, which is an important measure, as we give to the consideration of a bill for the Hohokan Pima National Monument, Ariz.

It seems to me that to lump together indiscriminately major and minor measures is not to get to the root of the problem. What has happened is that the committees have not been doing their work for the year, and when we come down to the end of the year, we have all these bills up together.

Are we getting to the root of the problem by doubling the number of problems with a procedure of this kind?

Mr. BOLLING. Mr. Speaker, I should like the opportunity to answer that question.

Mr. ANDERSON of Illinois. I would appreciate an answer.

Mr. BOLLING. Mr. Speaker, I think the answer is very obvious and very simple. Except in a rare case—and there have been cases in my experience when both parties have done this—in the rare case when it was important to have a political record on a bill and there was no other way to get it than on suspension; and I have seen it done in a Republican Congress as well as in a Democratic Congress—I believe this procedure will be beneficial because it hews to the fundamental question: The degree of controversialness, the degree of opposition to a piece of legislation should have something to do with how it is considered, and if there is major opposition to any matter, it can be defeated on suspension, just as it can be defeated on the unanimous-consent calendars when it is considered to have very, very little controversy and brought up again under a rule.

So we are not talking about a final limitation on debate; we are talking about a process which may, if used, as I know it will be, intelligently, provide and will provide for the more orderly systematic consideration and allocation of the time of the House to the bill.

Mr. Speaker, I have nothing further to add to this. I think this is a reasonable approach. I could spend the afternoon yielding time on this.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to yield to my friend from Indiana (Mr. DENNIS) who has been seeking recognition for a very long time.

Mr. DENNIS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. BOLLING) for his courtesy in yielding.

I simply wanted to observe that it seems to me the saddest part of my good friend's presentation was his initial suggestion that perhaps the argument would be the other way around if the minority and the majority were reversed.

Now, Mr. Speaker, that is an amusing statement, and it is a good cynical, political approach to the subject, if you like, but I suggest to my friend, in all seriousness, that it just cannot be right, regardless of who is in the minority or who is in the majority, in a deliberative body, to increase the time for the consideration of matters, and the number of matters which it will be possible to consider, on suspension of the rules, with only 40 minutes of debate and without the possibility of amendment; and I will say to my friend, as far as I am personally concerned, at any rate, it would not make the slightest difference which way the majority is, and if it were turned around, as it will be some day, the right would still be with those who do not think that that kind of procedure is worthy of a deliberative body in this country.

Mr. BOLLING. Mr. Speaker, I will respond to my friend and say that I have had the good fortune to serve in a Congress controlled by the present minority party, and if they were ever as gentle in their management of the House as the Democrats consistently are, I would be utterly startled.

Mr. Speaker, they believe in majority rule, and they exercise it with great skill, and some ruthlessness.

Mr. Speaker, I was talking from experience, I repeat to my friend from Indiana, and I respect his view in the matter; I just disagree with it wholly and completely.

My view is not cynical; it is realistic, and it is based on the experience of seeing a Republican Congress which was very well managed.

Mr. Speaker, I must yield to my friend from New Jersey.

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding. My remarks will be brief.

The gentleman has made the point earlier that one individual should not block the will of the House with respect to the time in which the House will meet.

I wonder how the gentleman would feel about the alternative proposed by the minority leader that one-third should be able to block rather than having this a simple majority decision.

Mr. BOLLING. Mr. Speaker, I would be delighted to answer, and I have a very quick answer.

On scheduling, I think the majority should have the right to call the turn. I would not favor any such process in terms of something besides scheduling.

In other words, I would not believe we ought to have suspensions without a two-thirds vote, but I think in setting a schedule, the majority of the House of Representatives, presumably coming from the majority, if there was a minority opposition to it, should have the right to do so.

Mr. Speaker, I think that is normal in perhaps every other parliamentary body in the developed world except this one.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. Will the gentleman yield to me?

Mr. BOLLING. I have to yield to my friend from Michigan. I am spending the day yielding, but I am delighted to yield to him.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. First will the gentleman ask for general leave for all Members to extend their remarks? I have had several requests for that.

GENERAL LEAVE TO EXTEND

Mr. BOLLING. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 days in which to extend their remarks on this subject matter at this point in the RECORD.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Missouri?

There was no objection.

Mr. BOLLING. I now yield further to the gentleman from Michigan.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

What concerns me on the time of the House meeting is that we have established 12 o'clock, and now at the end of a day when a mere handful might be here and many Members have left with the expectation that the next day will have a 12 o'clock meeting time we will have a mere handful stick around and decide that it will be 10 or 11 o'clock. I think some people who may vote for the previous question could very well be disappointed under these circumstances.

Mr. BOLLING. Could I comment to my good friend from Michigan?

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. Surely. It is the gentleman's time, and I know he will be fair.

Mr. BOLLING. The gentleman from Michigan is—and this is not flattery—a very able floor leader. I have had the opportunity to observe the way in which he manages the problems of his party. I notice that he always has some competent Member available right on through special orders. If there is a strong feeling that some motion like that will be put late in the afternoon, the mere threat of forcing a rollcall would prevent it. My friend knows that, and I do not disagree with his point, but the protection is there. There are days in the year when I wish we could do a better job of guarding both sides, but I think that is a part of the responsibility of legislators and legislative leaders, to see to it that adequate protection is given to their side, and I know my friend from Michigan will give it.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. Will the gentleman yield further?

Mr. BOLLING. I will be glad to yield.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. The gentleman has made a good point. We are not going to be oblivious to such tactics as the gentleman from Missouri indicates. That will be our only protection—the threat of a rollcall at 6:30 or 7 o'clock in the evening.

Mr. BOLLING. Let me comment on that. My friend knows that is not his only protection.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. It is a very valid one.

Mr. BOLLING. It is a valid one.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. And a practical one.

Mr. BOLLING. Right.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. Which we will have to use to protect the integrity of the membership as a whole.

Mr. BOLLING. Let me comment on that, too. I do not know how much time there is left, and I do not want the time to run out at the wrong time.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. This is a very good discussion.

Mr. BOLLING. I would like to point out that the gentleman did the Speaker the honor of introducing him and I do not believe he was using empty words when he spoke of his fairness. The gentleman and I have served the same length of time here. We have had the pleasure of serving under fair Speakers—people who were fair. I cannot conceive of the present occupant of the Chair or any other occupant of the Chair not being fair in protecting minority rights. Can the gentleman?

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. I agree wholeheartedly. I said it, and I reiterate it. The gentleman from Missouri knows, as does our Speaker, how on occasions over the past several years we have literally begged to get permission on a unanimous-consent basis to come in at an earlier hour. I am not objecting to changing it from unanimous consent, but I do believe that a two-thirds vote is a more equitable, a fairer way to handle the change in the time of meeting than a majority vote. That is my point.

Mr. BOLLING. I repeat what I said before but very briefly. I think in this day a majority vote is proper so that there could not be obstructionism.

Does my friend from New York desire me to yield to him?

Mr. CONABLE. Yes.

Mr. BOLLING. If you have any time left, I will be glad to yield to you.

Mr. CONABLE. Will the gentleman from Missouri further spell out the implications when he says that we will have further opportunity to participate in a review of the rules of the House?

Does the gentleman mean in the near future? Because this seems to be a matter peculiarly subject to party control at this point, and those of us on this side of the aisle who are interested in this subject would like to know what the gentleman means about that.

Mr. BOLLING. I would say to the gentleman from New York, and, of course, to be perfectly frank, I am not in a position to say all that I know, but I can say this: and that is that as far as the Democrats are concerned we have postponed in our caucus virtually all of the so-called reforms which are, at least in part, party matters, and some of those matters which are not partisan matters, to a meeting next Wednesday.

Of course I cannot tell the gentleman from New York what will emerge from that caucus, but I anticipate a series of caucuses. There are in other places and in the hands of other people possible propositions that will deal with the matters that are considered important both by Members inside the House, and many individuals outside, that deal with secrecy, openness, and whether the Congress really is an equal branch. I think all of those things will be coming to pass. I can guarantee nothing, but I would not stand here for a minute and suggest to the gentleman that we are going to have a lot of reform because, as the gentleman knows, we will all have to work together in order to achieve the kind of reform we all want.

Mr. CONABLE. Might I say that I hope that it will be in a forum, other than in the Democratic caucus, at which we cannot appear, if we earnestly desire to revive and renew the life of this institution.

Mr. BOLLING. I think already in this institution there are two; one is the Committee on Rules from which the reform might come, and the other is the Committee on Organization, and there will be others.

The SPEAKER. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. FINDLEY. Mr. Speaker, I am disappointed that the rules now being considered do not include budgetary reform.

Almost everyone acknowledges that present budgetary practices are unsatisfactory.

Almost all municipalities and business firms—even the smallest ones—are more businesslike.

At no point during the year does the House approve a budget for the Federal Government. It receives the President's budget but never makes a decision on it. Nor does it come up with its own comprehensive budget.

Instead it deals piecemeal through the presently fragmented appropriations committee process with the President's request. This is done with little if any reference to where the money will come from. The President's recommendations are divided up among the 13 appropriations subcommittees, and the spending bills come forward separately and, for all practical purposes, independent of each other and independent also of the effect they will have on the balance—or imbalance—between total receipts and expenditures.

Periodically the House considers bills to increase the ceiling on the public debt. But this occurs after the spending process has been completed, not before.

This process, so correctly described as "hoary" and "haphazard," is one of the main reasons why the House fails so miserably to establish reasonable and proper fiscal priorities for the Nation, and why it also fails so miserably to maintain a balance between receipts and expenditures. As all Members know, the Constitution conveys special responsibilities on this body, as the place where all measures to raise money and to spend money must originate.

Because we have exercised this responsibility so poorly massive Federal deficits pile on massive Federal deficits. It is no wonder the President sought last year authority to suspend and reduce funding in order to keep total expenditures under $250 billion. The Congress refused to convey that authority to the President and he is now engaged in paring away programs within existing legislation.

Frankly, it strikes me as poor policy to grant permanently to the President such broad authority, although in light of the emergency I voted to give him the power for 1 year only.

My fervent hope is that the House will see fit this year to amend its rules to as to correct the procedural situation, to require a businesslike handling of the Federal budget each year.

With that in mind, I am today introducing a House resolution establishing rule XLV.

Here is the text of the resolution:

Resolved, That the rules of the House are amended by adding rule XLV as follows:

"HOUSE-AUTHORIZED FEDERAL BUDGET

"1. Not later than sixty days after the President's annual budget message has been received at the beginning of each regular session of the Congress, the Committee on Appropriations is authorized and directed to report to the House a resolution containing a House-authorized Federal budget for the ensuing fiscal year.

"The budget shall include:

"1. The total of estimated Federal receipts from all sources;

"2. The maximum amount to be provided in obligatory authority in each appropriation bill or resolution and in such other legislative provisions of obligatory authority as may be specified, and the estimated bud-et outlay related to each, including those outlays from funds provided in prior years.

"3. A table showing the relationship of total estimated receipts as shown in (1) to the aggregate of the maximum amounts to be provided in obligational authority and the aggregate of the estimated budget outlays as shown in (2).

"When the Committee on Appropriations has reported the House resolution adopting such budget, it shall be in order, after the report on the resolution has been available to the Members of the House for at least three calendar days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays), for the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations to move to proceed to the consideration of such resolution in the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union (even though a previous motion to the same effect has been disagreed to). Such motion shall be highly privileged and shall not be debatable. No amendment to such motion shall be in order and it shall not be in order to move to reconsider the vote.

"After general debate on the resolution, which shall not exceed ten hours, such time to be equally divided and controlled by the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Appropriations, the resolution shall be read for amendment under the five-minute rule. At the conclusion of the consideration of the resolution for amendment, the Committee of the Whole shall rise and report the resolution back to the House with such amendments as may have been adopted, and the previous question shall be considered as ordered on the resolution and amendments thereto to adoption without intervening motion except one motion to recommit.

"2. No bill or resolution carrying appropriations or otherwise providing obligational authority for the present or ensuing fiscal year shall be in order for consideration by the House until the House-authorized Federal budget for such year has been approved, and the resolution required by Section 4 of this Rule has been approved.

"The report on each such bill or resolution providing obligational authority for the present and ensuing year must include a statement in one of the following forms:

"First form: 'The provisions of this bill (or resolution) conform to the requirements of the House-authorized Federal budget for fiscal year 19—. The bill (or resolution) as reported will provide $— in obligational authority, and when this amount is deducted the remaining balance for this bill (or resolution) under the House-authorized Federal budget is $—; it is estimated that budget outlays related to this bill (or resolution) as reported will be $—, and when this amount is deducted the remaining balance for this bill (or resolution) under the House-authorized Federal budget is $—.' or

"Second form: 'The provisions of this bill (or resolution) do not conform to the requirements of the House-authorized Federal budget for fiscal 19—. As reported it will provide $— in obligational authority, and when this amount is deducted from the amount available under the House-authorized Federal budget, a deficit results in the amount of $—; (and/or) it is estimated that budget outlays for the bill (or resolution) as reported will be $— and when this amount is deducted from the amount available under the House-authorized Federal budget, a deficit results in the amount of $—.'

"Any bill or resolution carrying appropriations or otherwise providing obligational authority whose report fails to include a statement in the first form, or which, in its amended form, fails to comply with the requirement as stated in the first form, and any amendment which causes the bill or resolution to fail to comply with the requirement as stated in the first form, shall require in the House the approval of two-thirds of those Members present and voting, a quorum being present.

"3. A conference report on a bill or resolution carrying appropriations or otherwise providing obligational authority shall require the approval of two-thirds of those Members present and voting, a quorum being present, if the effect of the adoption of the report would be to provide an amount in excess of that contained in the House-authorized Federal budget for such year. Motion to dispose of amendments remaining in disagreement following adoption of a conference report on a bill or resolution carrying appropriations or otherwise providing obligational authority shall require the approval of two-thirds of those Members present and voting, a quorum being present, if the effect of the adoption of such motion would be to provide an amount in excess of that contained in the House-authorized Federal budget for such year.

"4. Within fifteen calendar days after adoption of the House-authorized Federal budget, the Committee on Ways and Means is authorized and directed to report a resolution containing recommendations as to the levels of public debt and aggregate Federal revenues necessitated by figures on outlays and receipts contained in the House-authorized Federal budget.

"When the Committee on Ways and Means has reported to the House said resolution, it shall be in order, after the report on the resolution has been available to the Members of the House for at least three calendar days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays), for the chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means to move to proceed to the consideration of such resolution in the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union (even though a previous motion to the same effect has been disagreed to). Such motion shall be highly privileged and shall not be debatable. No amendment to such motion shall be in order and it shall not be in order to move to reconsider the vote.

"After general debate on the resolution, which shall be limited to not to exceed six hours, such time to be equally divided and controlled by the chairman and ranking minority member of the Ways and Means Committee, the resolution shall be read for amendment under the five-minute rule. At the conclusion of the consideration of the resolution for amendment, the Committee of the Whole shall rise and report the resolution back to the House with such amendments as may have been adopted, and the previous question shall be considered as ordered on the resolution and amendments thereto to adoption without intervening motion except one motion to recommit.

"The requirements of this rule shall not be waived or suspended."

This bill is the culmination of a long and arduous search to find the best way to handling the House's budgetary responsibilities. In the 92d Congress, with more than 30 Members as cosponsors—Democrats as well as Republicans—similar language was introduced.

Since then a number of experts have examined it and made suggestions. Among them are Kermit Gordon, former Director of the Budget and now president of Brookings Institution, officials of the Office of Management and Budget, the Parliamentarian of the House and his staff, as well as many Members of the House.

I believe it is a practical forward step that deserves early consideration by the House. I hope the Committee on Rules will soon schedule a day of hearings on it.

Under this proposal, the House could not consider any appropriations bill or resolution, or legislation providing obligational authority until these events have occurred:

First, the House must adopt a resolution containing a budget for the ensuing fiscal year. This resolution is to be reported by the Appropriations Committee. It must include the total of estimated Federal receipts from all sources, the maximum to be provided in obligational authority in each appropriation bill or resolution, or other legislative provision of obligational authority, together with the estimated budget outlay related to each, including those outlays from funds provided in prior years.

The resolution must also show the relationship of total receipts to the aggregate of the outlay and obligational authority figures.

Second, the House must adopt a resolution containing recommendations as to the levels of public debt and aggregate Federal revenues necessitated by figures on outlays and receipts contained in the House-authorized Federal budget. This resolution must be reported to the House by the Ways and Means Committee not more than 15 days after the budget resolution is adopted.

Once these two resolutions have been adopted, appropriation bills and other measures conveying obligational authority would be considered in the customary manner but one important exception.

Two-thirds affirmative vote would be required for the House to approve any appropriations bill, or resolution, or other bill providing obligational authority, or amendment or conference report on such bill or resolution which exceeds the provisions of the budget.

Would this requirement be just one more delay in an appropriation process that is already too slow moving?

To the contrary, it would help streamline procedures. Each Subcommittee of Appropriations would know that not later than 60 days after the President's budget has been delivered to Capitol Hill, it will be required to help draft the resolution on the House approved Federal budget. This requirement would be new incentive to press forward and make the hearings as complete as possible by the time the headline arrives. Because of the two-thirds vote requirement on overruns, subcommittee will be unlikely to spend much time dealing with requests for such. Most appropriation bills will be virtually ready for reporting to the House by May. In turn, the deadline will exert pressure on the authorizing committees to complete their work.

Will the rule produce balanced budgets?

It will certainly help. The budget resolution will bring together for approval at one time expenditure totals and revenue forecasts. If the figures are out of balance, Members voting yes will be voting for an unbalanced budget. Because this is an unappealing posture, most will be inclined to vote to keep expenditure in line with revenue—or at least to make the best possible legislative record in that direction. If the figures show a balance of revenue and expenditure, those voting yes will be voting for a balanced budget.

How will the rule affect tax levels?

If the budget shows outlay in excess of revenue, the second resolution will provide that the difference be made up by more revenue, higher level of public debt, or a combination of the two. If it calls for $3 billion more in revenue, for example, approval of the resolution with this item in it would have the effect of directing Ways and Means Committee to come forth with measures providing the extra revenue.

How will the rule affect the ceiling on public debt?

In line with the answer just above, if the second resolution calls for meeting a budget deficit by a $3 billion increase in public debt, that would effectively settle the question of an increase in the debt ceiling at a later date. The amount of increase, of course, would be determined by how close the subsequent congressional appropriations match the provisions of the budget resolution, and the accuracy of revenue forecasts.

At what point would the proposal involve the Senate?

At no point would the involvement be direct. Indirectly, the effect would be substantial. Once the House approves the resolution on the budget, it could consider appropriations bills. But not until then. Once approved by the House—by majority vote, or two-thirds, as circumstances may require—the bills would go through customary channels. If the Senate should approve a bill providing more money than authorized in the House budget resolution, the conference report could be accepted by the House only if two-thirds of those present and voting approve.

What is the purpose of the proposed rule?

To cause the House to make basic decisions on expenditures and revenues for the ensuing fiscal year, and what to do about the difference between the two items, before it begins to appropriate money. Under present procedures, the House never at any time approves a budget for the Federal Government, even in the most general, tentative terms. It receives the President's budget message; subcommittees of the Appropriations Committee begin to hold hearings; eventually, based on these hearings, the House begins to appropriate money piecemeal. Only once in recent years—1968—did the House establish even an aggregate expenditure ceiling. It deals with the question of public debt at the wrong end of the process—after the money has been appropriated and obligated—not before. It deals with the relationship of revenue to expenditure only on those infrequent occasions when the Ways and Means Committee brings forward a bill dealing with general taxation.

In House rules from 1947 to 1970 was the requirement that the Congress approve a budget for the Federal Government. It did not work. Does this plan have better prospect of success?

Yes, because the differences are substantial. The old rule had a vital shortcoming. It had no teeth. Failure to adopt the legislative budget resolution, as provided in the rule, did not stop the appropriation process. The new proposal provides that appropriation bills are not in order until the budget resolution has been adopted. The old rule on the legislative budget had not such requirement. The old rule produced a legislative budget resolution only once—in 1947, and on two subsequent years became hopelessly mired in Senate-House conference. After 1949 no serious effort to pass a legislative budget was undertaken. The new proposal deals only with House procedures.

Would it not be better to include the Senate in the rule?

The Senate, of course, can adopt exactly the same discipline, a new discipline or no discipline. The House need not wait for Senate concurrence. Both the House and Senate have their separate responsibilities, so either body can justify special measures of self-discipline.

Mr. MADDEN. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question on the resolution.

The SPEAKER. The question is on ordering the previous question.

Mr. GERALD R. FORD. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The question was taken; and there were—yeas 208, nays 206, not voting 17, as follows:

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER CONCERNING ELECTRONIC VOTING

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to make a statement, and it is a statement that is important to all of the Members of the House.

The Rules of the House provide for the use of an electronic voting system which has recently been installed in the House Chamber. The chairman of the Committee on House Administration addressed a letter to each Member advising the places, dates, and times when staff personnel from the office of the Clerk and the Committee on House Administration would be available for preparation of House of Representatives voter identification cards. The Chair urges Members to have the cards prepared and tested as soon as possible. Of course, it will take a few days to complete this project. Therefore, pursuant to the authority contained in clause 5 of rule XV, the Chair directs that until further notice all rollcall votes and quorum calls shall be taken by the Clerk calling the roll in the same manner as was the practice in the last Congress.

Members will be given sufficient notice as to when the electronic voting system will be activated.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE ACTING SECRETARY, DEPARTMENT OF STATE—PROCLAMATION BY PRESIDENT NIXON ANNOUNCING THE DEATH OF FORMER PRESIDENT HARRY S. TRUMAN

The SPEAKER laid before the House the following communication from the Acting Secretary of the Department of State:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,

Washington, December 27, 1972.

HON. CARL ALBERT,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

DEAR MR. SPEAKER: I enclose herewith a copy of the Proclamation by President Nixon officially announcing the death of Harry S. Truman, former President of the United States, which occurred in Kansas City, Missouri, on Tuesday morning, December 26, 1972, at 7:50 o'clock.

Sincerely,

U. ALEXIS JOHNSON,
Acting Secretary.

ANNOUNCING THE DEATH OF HARRY S. TRUMAN
BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

A PROCLAMATION

To the People of the United States:

It is my sad duty to announce officially the death of Harry S. Truman, thirty-third President of the United States, on December 26, 1972.

Throughout his long career in public service, Harry S. Truman was known as a man of forthrightness and integrity. He served with distinction in the United States Senate; and when the death of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt thrust him suddenly into the Presidency in April of 1945 at one of the most critical moments of our history, he met that moment with courage and vision. His far-sighted leadership in the postwar era has helped ever since to preserve peace and freedom in the world.

Confronted during his Presidency with a momentous series of challenges, his strength and spirit proved equal to them all. His fortitude never wavered, and his faith in America never flagged.

President Truman had a deep respect for the office he held and for the people he served. He gave himself unstintingly to the duties of the Presidency while he held it, and in the years afterward he honorably supported and wisely counseled each of his successors.

The Nation to which he gave so much will honor his memory in admiration and respect, and the other countries for which he helped keep freedom alive will remember his name with gratitude.

Now, therefore, I, Richard Nixon, President of the United States of America, in tribute to the memory of President Truman, and as an expression of public sorrow, do hereby direct that the flag of the United States be displayed at half-staff at the White House and on all buildings, grounds, and Naval vessels of the United States for a period of thirty days from the day of his death. I also direct that for the same length of time the representatives of the United States in foreign countries shall make similar arrangements for the display of the flag at half-staff over their Embassies, Legations, and other facilities abroad, including all military facilities and stations.

I hereby order that suitable honors be rendered by units of the Armed Forces under orders of the Secretary of Defense on the day of the funeral.

I do further appoint December 28, 1972 to be a National Day of Mourning throughout the United States. I recommend that the people assemble on that day in their respective places of worship, there to pay homage to the memory of President Truman and to seek God's continued blessing on our land and on His servant. I invite the people of the world who share our grief to join us in this solemn observance.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand this 26th day of December, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred seventy-two, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred ninety-seventh.

RICHARD NIXON.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE CLERK OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES—COMMON CAUSE, JOHN W. GARDNER AGAINST W. PATRICK JENNINGS, CLERK OF THE U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, AND FRANCIS VALEO, SECRETARY OF U.S. SENATE

The SPEAKER laid before the House the following communication from the Clerk of the House of Representatives:

WASHINGTON, D.C.,
December 14, 1972.

The Honorable CARL ALBERT,
The Speaker, House of Representatives.

DEAR SIR: On this date I have been served a Summons and Complaint by the United States Marshal that was issued by the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia. This summons and complaint is in connection tion with Common Cause, John W. Gardner v. W. Patrick Jennings, Clerk of the U.S. House of Representatives, and Francis Valeo, Secretary of the U.S. Senate, Civil Action No. 2379-72 (U.S.D.C. D. D.C.).

This action was instituted against the Clerk of the House as Supervisory Officer under the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, P.L. 92-225. The Summons requires an answer to the Complaint within sixty days after service.

It is my purpose to inform you that in accordance with House Resolution 9 of January 21, 1971, I intend to make arrangements for my defense as provided for the Officers of the U.S. House of Representatives under 2 U.S.C. 118. In my letter to the Attorney General of the United States making such arrangements I am reserving my right to appoint co-counsel at any time for my defense as Supervisory Officer as prescribed by House Resolution 955 of May 3, 1972.

The Summons and Complaint in question are herewith attached, and the matter is presented for such action as the House in its wisdom may see fit to take.

Sincerely,

W. PAT JENNINGS,
Clerk, House of Representatives.

DECEMBER 15, 1972.

Honorable RICHARD G. KLEINDIENST
Attorney General of the United States
Department of Justice
Washington, D.C. 20530

DEAR MR. KLEINDIENST: This refers to the letter of the Assistant Attorney General, Civil Division, of December 13, 1972 that enclosed a copy of the summons and complaint served on the Attorney General on December 5, 1972 in Common Cause, John W. Gardner v. W. Patrick Jennings, Clerk of the U.S. House of Representatives and Francis Valeo, Secretary, U.S. Senate, Civil Action No. 2379-72 (U.S.D.C. D. D.C.) that requested information concerning representation in this matter.

Upon receipt of the December 13, 1972 letter the Clerk of the House telephoned Common Cause and advised their counsel that the Clerk asserts that service of a summons and complaint on the Attorney General of the United States does not constitute service upon the Clerk of the U.S. House of Representatives. The Clerk also advised Common Cause that the matter would be considered only after appropriate service was accomplished as provided by law.

The purpose of this letter is to advise you that later that same day a U.S. Marshall served the attached summons and complaint in the forementioned case on the Clerk of the House at 4:30 P.M., December 14, 1972, and the sixty day period for answering the complaint begins to run from the time service was accomplished (as stated in the Summons) upon the Clerk of the House. I am attaching a certified copy of the Summons and Complaint served on me by the U.S. Marshall.

In accordance with 2 U.S.C. 118 I have sent a certified copy of the Summons and Complaint to the U.S. Attorney for the District of Columbia requesting that he take appropriate action for my defense under the supervision and direction of the Attorney General. In addition, I am reserving my right to appoint at any time a co-counsel for my defense as Supervisory Officer under the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971 under House Resolution 955 of May 3, 1972. I am also sending you a copy of the letter I forwarded this date to the U.S. Attorney.

Your letter graciously advised that the Clerk's "views and other assistance" were welcome on this matter. In conformance therewith the Clerk advises that a preliminary draft regulation on "earmarked funds" has been prepared and coordinated with the other Supervisory Officers that received tentative approval from them. The Clerk is prepared to meet at a mutually agreeable time and place with representatives of the Attorney General.

With kindest regards, I am

Sincerely,

W. PAT JENNINGS,
Clerk, U.S. House of Representatives.

DECEMBER 15, 1972.

In accordance with Title 2, U.S. Code, Sec. 118, I respectfully request that you take appropriate action, as deemed necessary, under the "supervision and direction of the Attorney General" of the United States in defense of this suit against The Congress of the United States.

Since this action was brought against me as Clerk of the House in my capacity as Supervisory Officer under the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, P.L. 92-225, I reserve the right to appoint at any time a co-counsel for my defense under House Resolution 955 of May 2, 1972.

I am also sending you a copy of the letter that I forwarded this date to the Attorney General of the United States.

PROVIDING FOR A JOINT SESSION TO COUNT ELECTORAL VOTES

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Speaker, I call up a Senate concurrent resolution (S. Con. Res. 1) and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the Senate concurrent resolution, as follows:

The Senate concurrent resolution was concurred in.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

The SPEAKER. Pursuant to the provisions of Senate Concurrent Resolution 1, the Chair appoints as tellers on the part of the House to count the electoral votes on January 6, 1973, the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. HAYS) and the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. DEVINE).

AUTHORIZING SPEAKER TO DECLARE A RECESS ON SATURDAY, JANUARY 6, 1973

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that on Saturday, January 6, 1973, it may be in order for the Speaker to declare a recess at any time subject to the call of the Chair.

There was no objection.

PRESIDENTIAL INAUGURATION

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Speaker, I offer a concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 1) and ask for its immediate consideration.

H. CON. RES. 1

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That effective from January 3, 1973, the joint committee created by Senate Concurrent Resolution 63, of the Ninety-second Congress, to make the necessary arrangements for the inauguration of the President-elect and Vice President-elect of the United States on the 20th day of January 1973, is hereby continued and for such purpose shall have the same power and authority as that conferred by such Senate Concurrent Resolution 63, of the Ninety-second Congress.

The concurrent resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

The SPEAKER. Pursuant to the provisions of Concurrent Resolution No. 1, 93d Congress, the Chair appoints as members of the joint committee to make the necessary arrangements for the inauguration of the President-elect and the Vice President-elect of the United States on the 20th day of January, 1973, the following Members on the part of the House: Mr. GERALD R. FORD of Michigan, Mr. CARL ALBERT of Oklahoma, and Mr. THOMAS P. O'NEILL, Jr., of Massachusetts.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER CONCERNING INTRODUCTION OF BILLS

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to make a statement concerning the introduction and reference of bills today. This is very important.

The Members are aware that they have the privilege today of introducing bills. Heretofore on the opening day of the new Congress, several thousand bills have been introduced.

It will be readily apparent to all Members that it may be a physical impossibility for the Speaker to examine each bill for reference today. The Chair will do its best to refer as many bills as possible, but it will ask the indulgence of the Members if it is unable to refer all the bills that may be introduced.

Those bills which are not referred and do not appear in the RECORD as of today will be included in the next day's RECORD and printed with a date as of today.

The Chair has advised all officers and employees of the House who are involved in the processing of bills that every bill, resolution, memorial, petition or other material which is placed in the hopper must bear the signature of a Member. Where a bill or resolution is jointly sponsored, the signature must be that of the Member first named thereon.

Bill clerks are instructed to return to the Member any bill which appears in the hopper without an original signature. This procedure was inaugurated in the last Congress. It worked well. The Chair believes it is essential to continue this practice to insure the integrity of the process on which legislation is introduced in the House.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to announce that pursuant to the order of the House of October 18, 1972, empowering him to appoint commissions, boards, and committees authorized by law or by the House, he did on November 27, 1972, pursuant to the provisions of section 301 (a), title 3, Public Law 92-599, appoint as members of the joint committee to review operation of budget ceiling and to

Eternal Father, as we undertake the tasks of this day, gratefully we remember before Thee Thy servant, Harry S. Truman. We thank Thee for his long and distinguished service as a Member of this body, for his high leadership as President of the Republic, for his wisdom and courage in difficult decisions, for his efforts to make and conserve the peace of the world, for his devotion to freedom and justice for all, and for his manly qualities which endeared him to so many. May some portion of the dedication which was his come upon us.

As we offer a memorial for a past President, we pray also for the present President that he may be given grace, wisdom, and strength for the burdens of this age.

We lift up to Thee the Members of this body into whose lives sorrow has so recently come. Grant to them the assurance of our brotherly sympathy and the grace, comfort, and strength of Thy pervading presence.

In the name of Him who is the resurrection and the life. Amen.

THE JOURNAL

Mr. ROBERT C. BYRD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the Journal of the proceedings of Wednesday, January 3, 1973, be dispensed with.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Without objection, it is so ordered.

TRIBUTE TO FORMER PRESIDENT HARRY S. TRUMAN

Mr. SCOTT of Pennsylvania. Mr. President, as we pay tribute to former President Harry S. Truman, with whom many of us served, we recall that this was a very strong man. He made difficult decisions. He served in time of war and in time of peace. As the leader of our Nation, he did not hesitate to be strong when strength was necessary. He did what had to be done in the national interest. He did it strongly. He did it notwithstanding the criticism offered against him. He moved sturdily and steadily ahead with his purposes.

He brought about a situation which enabled the succeeding President to end a difficult war. He used the most powerful weapon available in the history of mankind, with what reluctance no one will ever know. But he did it.

The Nation honors that kind of strength, as in time they will honor the strength of every President who dares to do what he thinks is right against the second guessing of the clamorous critics.

Elizabeth Barrett Browning once wrote:

Happy are all free peoples,
Too strong to be dispossessed.
But blessed are they among nations,
Who dare to be strong for the rest.

Mr. President, that has been the role of the United States—sometimes, we think, too much. It has been the role of the United States, at times, as in the Marshall plan, to dare to be strong for the rest.

As Truman, in using the Marshall plan, held great sectors of the world free from tyranny and aggression, as Eisenhower, in the landings at Lebanon, effected the same results in maintaining the stability of the Middle East, so must each President in the loneliness of his responsibilities make these strong and difficult decisions.

I believe that Congress, concerned as it is now with its prerogatives, will need to remember that there is something more important than prerogative, something more important than protocol, something more important than headlines—and that is the security of the United States.

We customarily extend broad trust to a President in the course of the protection of the Nation. It tries our souls and stretches our patience at times when we feel that we do not know all we would
